Grand send-off

Police Chief Miller retires

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Antioch sent its favorite 30-year veteran police officer packing Sunday afternoon.

By early evening, Chuck Miller was packing a Browning 12-gauge shotgun, a commemorative Beretta pistol, a Bulova clock, a key to the village, a stack of plaques, and the warm well wishes of his friends, professional colleagues, and the citizens of the community he served as Chief of Police for 20 years and as an officer for another 10.

It was an afternoon of remembering old tales and warm friendships by state, regional, county, and local officials and citizens. It was an ordeal of hearing nice things said about you in public.

Regardless, he is still going fish-

"I decided 30 years was enough when I started out," he said a few days before the big send-off. "It's time to enjoy life." 'I love Antioch," he said. Miller will stay in town and use his cabin up north for vacations. He plans to do "a lot of fishing, some hunting in the fall. I'll spend a lot of time with the grandkids." Mayor Marilyn Shineflug presented the former police chief with gifts from Antioch paid for by people attending the party. She gave him a key to the village. She presented him with two pair of round-trip plane tickets- one to Florida and one to Montana. And, she presented him with a Bulova Quartz Anniversary Clock inscribed from the village.

Antioch Police Chief Charles Watkins presented Miller with a plaque containing all six of his service badges. "It's been a privilege to serve under you. You've taught us a lot about life and being a policeman," said Watkins. He also presented the former Chief with a wooden engraved box that contained a Beretta pistol, the official department hand-gun. Chuck Miller's wife, Carole, was also given a photograph of her husband in a squad car on his last official Easter parade detail from March, 1997.

Bert Metz, a representative from the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 210, and the Antioch Police Associa tion, presented an engraved 12-

Art and Crafts fair continues to build

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

"This sounds like the biggest show anyone ever remembers having," says Dan Sills. He is the organizer of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry Father's Day Weekend Arts and Crafts Fair on Toft Street June 14 and 15.

"There are 90 plus exhibitors for this years show," he said. And, they are still signing up. There were 45 exhibitors last year.

"This show used to be considered one of the best shows," says Sills, of downtown Antioch's Betty Sills Gallery, and now it is attracting talented watercolor artists such as Connie Glowacki. "She'll be there for the full two days," he said. He is enormously impressed and proud that an artist of her stature will exhibit and sell at the Chamber's Fair.

Glowacki is a watercolorist with both original works and limited edition prints that she sells at exhibits. Her work is included in private and corporate art collections throughout the United States. She works out of her Janesville, Wis. studio.

About 20 percent of the exhibitors are from outside the area. It is a juried show that features a mix of artists and crafts workers in various media.

"The show has a lot of history," he said. It has been in other locations and times, but for the past few years it has been on Toft Street on Father's Day Weekend. There is free admission, free parking, and food conces-

The Chamber will mail announcements of the Fair to 7700 households in the 60002 zip code to ensure that people know of the fair. Also, there are 30 advertising signs that will be placed around town to call attention to the fair.

Sills says that it is very important to get a strong community turn-out for the Fair because people who exhibit want to know that their work will be seen by many people. A show with a strong participation reputation is what attracts quality exhibitors in future years. "For most of them, this is their livelihood," he explained. "They work (on their art)in the week and sell on weekends." Some artists may exhibit at between 20 and 50 shows a year he said. In the winter, they follow good weather into the south.

The Chamber of Commerce and Industry is the sponsor of the fair. Funds raised through sponsorship go to Chamber activities for the community and businessbuilding. This can include such needs as scholarships and beauti-

Antioch residents will soon find their village on the world wide web at the end of their fingertips.

Working with Innovative Solutions in Wadsworth, the village board has completed its final review of a web page format, content, and site design. Webmaster Frank W. Burke, of Innovative Solutions, said after the village review process, "The official live date is June 20."

The village board unanimously accepted the proposal for the web page creation and its format. The site will include hyperlinks to the Antioch Public Library District, Antioch Upper Grade School, Antioch Community High School, The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Lake County, and the College of Lake County. Others may be added in the future.

The site will contain information in seven major areas. These will be the mayor's desk, government, phone

Waterway suspends Kabbes with pay

By JEFF PATERSON Staff Reporter

Decisions regarding out-going Fox Waterway Agency Executive Director Karen Kabbes continue to reflect division on the agency's board.

Even as the agency board begins to look for her replacement and seeks to negotiate for Kabbes' services as a consultant, it has also suspended her from work with pay until her resignation comes into effect June 30.

.The developments came as a result of a special board meeting held June 9.

"Karen Kabbes is gone and the statues require that we must have an executive director to be in charge of the daily operation of the Agency," said Chairman William Dam.

By state statue, the post of executive director must be filled by a person graduating from a four-year college or equivalent program in engi-

SEND-OFF: Miller retires

Miller Chief of Police and said, "No one has done more for this village than Chuck Miller" to make it what it

When asked a few days before the party about changes he has seen in the Department since he started in 1967, Miller said, "It's unbelievable how much it changed." He thinks the improvements are positive and "I can see younger kids getting excited about law enforcement."

For him, one big advance is "the data terminals in the car. (The police officer) doesn't have to go through dispatch." Plus, officers can receive written copies of information in the squad car and so there are fewer mistakes.

Fingerprints are examined much more quickly these days and this means that suspects can be found very quickly he also noted.

"One of the things I really like: the town, counties, and state have realized how important training is," he said. Now training is done all the time. The amount and type of training is much better. "The men and women appreciate that," he said. It gives them more confidence.

At the retirement party, Police Chief Watkins noted a long list of achievements during the tenure of Chuck Miller. Antioch was the first community in Lake County to have 911 service. The department grew from five to 19 professional police officers. Miller helped create the Northwest Quadrant Radio System to improve communications for police officers. Miller started a full-time liaison between the department and Antioch Community High School. A state-of-the-art dispatch system was established for seven emergency departments. The Metropolitan Enforcement Group, the Major Crimes Task Force, and the Northern Illinois Crime Laboratory all received strong support and development from Chuck Miller. He served on their

One of the personal sides of former Chief Miller to receive notice was his efforts to teach children an appreciation for fields and streams. The youth fishing tournament in the spring and the Ducks Unlimited Greenwing in the fall served to bring parents and children together for an outing. "I'm kind of proud of those two organizations," he said before the Sunday party.

When asked why he went fishing, Miller said, "It's the most relaxing thing I've ever done. It's like sleeping with your eyes open." He fishes for muskies and bass most often and is a catch-and-release sportsman. His reason? "Anything that fights that well deserves to go back."

In making a gift presentation to Chuck Miller, State's Attorney Mike Waller said at the party, "Chuck brought a small town perspective to law enforcement but not a small town attitude." Jack McKeever, a representative from the Lake County Chiefs of Police Association said, "This man is highly respected by all the Police Chiefs of this County."

At the end of the evening, former Antioch Police Chief Chuck Miller stood to say a few words to a room full of people who were standing to applaud his service and his character. He thanked the village for hiring him and said "I want to thank all my friends for being supportive."

He said no more. It was over.

tion or a closely-related field.

The board passed a motion to begin advertising for a replacement for Kabbes in local daily papers and professional trade journals.

Dam noted that, allowing for response time, review of resumes, the scheduling of interviews and possible time needed for the selected candidate to serve notice to their present employer, the agency may not have a new executive director in place until September 1.

With the post vacant for two months, Dam warned the board that the agency could find its work suspended by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Earlier in the meeting, Director Marshall Lowe made a motion, seconded by Director Wayne Blake that Kabbes be suspended with pay until her June 30 resig-neering, biology, public administra- nation comes into effect.

Dam spoke against the motion, arguing it would serve to lengthen the time the agency would be without an executive director.

"Action of this nature will not be lost on people in Chicago and Springfield," Dam said, "That motion, as phrased, will be hard for us to sell."

Lowe defended his motion, saying that, in lieu of Kabbes, the agency could hire consulting engineers to agency handle paperwork or any other matters.

The motion was passed 4-2 over the dissent of Directors William Hauck and James McKinley. Ironically, at the same meeting Directors Stan Mill and James McKinley were directed to begin talks with Kabbes to act as consultant on several on-going agency projects, including geo-tube island/habitat creation and Fox River ecosystem partnership.

Waterway chair: Appoint board

By JEFF PATERSON Staff Reporter

Amid heat drawn from board members for comments made to the media, Fox Waterway Agency Chairman Dr. William Dam indicated that the state should consider establishing tighter control over the agency.

"At this time the legislature should seriously consider an appointed board, people who have proven leadership abilities and environmental sensitivity," Dam said at a special board meeting on June 9.

During that meeting, Dam had been criticized for statements he had made to the media regarding the resignation of Executive Director Karen Kabbes and the charging of Dredging Excavation Field Manager Roy Gundelach with Operating a boat Under the Influence of Alcohol.

Director Ron Baker, for example, indicated that Dam had recently been "airing the agency's dirty laundry" on both the Kabbes and Gundelach issues.

But it was a quoted comment that, if the board did not become more sensitive environmental issues and the importance of qualified personnel, Dam would "not be adverse" to the state taking control of the agency, which raised some of the strongest criticism.

Director Wayne Blake characterized the comment as a childish reaction to opposition.

"That's like a little kid saying if you don't play the game my way, I'm going to take my bat and ball and go home," said Blake, adding that Dam "has complete disregard for this board and what this board stands for."

Dam said that, while he had answered questions from the press, he had issued no press releases to attract such attention.

"I've been a bit angry and I apologize. I've burnt some bridges," he said, concerning the effect of his

Come Worship With Us

A Directory Of Antioch Area Churches

comments in the news media.

Dam did not back away, however, from the position that a state-appointed board could be beneficial move for the agency.

"Management of ecological systems of the magnitude and complexity of the Fox River/Chain requires direction by persons of proven expertise and selfless dedication to environmental issues," Dam said, reading from a letter addressed to State Representative Robert Churchill (R-Antioch).

Saying his resolve 'could be changed by someone with "a clearer understanding" of the agency's past, present and future needs, Dam indicated he would "work tirelessly to have agency statutes amended to have an appointed board."

Other members of the board challenged Dam's idealistic argument for state intervention, indicating the move was very political in nature.

Gundelach on restricted duty

By JEFF PATERSON Staff Reporter

Following defeat of a motion to suspend its recently-appointed Dredging-Excavation Field Manager, the Board of the Fox Waterway Agency has instead elected to put Roy Gundelach on restricted duty pending his hearing on a charge of Operating a boat Under the Influence of Alcohol.

The vote came at a special meeting June 9, following debate over whether the preservation of the agency's image should take precedence over an assumption of innocence for Gundelach.

Gundelach was charged with OUI as a result of a May 31 collision between a boat he was operating and one at anchor in Lake Marie at 11 p.m. The operator of the second craft, Jeffrey Vincent of Chicago, stands charged with Failure to Display an Anchor Light.

Agency Chairman Dr. William Dam described the incident as "a public relations quagmire." G u n delach's "ingenuity for getting things done," notwithstanding, Agency Chairman Dr. William Dam recommended a motion of suspension or dismissal for his former brother-in-law.

Dam was joined by Director James McKinley in holding that only strong measures would remove the "huge dark cloud hanging over the agency," created by the charge against Gundelach.

Director Marshall Lowe, while acknowledging "the awkward position" the charge against Gundelach placed the agency in, recommended a suspension of judgment pending an official legal finding.

"I don't think this board can be the judge, jury and executioner," Lowe said to audience applause. "I think (we) should let the legal system take its course."

Further words of support for Gundelach came from Director Ron Baker, who praised him for raising the morale and productivity of employees.

Gundelach also argued these points when allowed to speak on his own behalf. He said that under his direction, agency work crews were clearing a channel a week instead of the former rate of less than one channel per month, and reducing agency costs per channel to $1,437.70 from $17,000.

"The employees are working, they're happier and they're not sitting around drinking coffee," he said.

Answering a challenge made by Director William Hauck that he would be unable to perform his job if subsequently restricted from operating a boat, Gundelach indicated that he had only been boating in conjunction with the placement of buoys and clearing of debris from Squaw Creek.

"It's always a two-man boat anyway," Gundelach said, pointing out he would not have to be the operator to be on the water.

A motion to suspend Gundelach, made by McKinley and seconded by Director William Hauck, was defeated 4-2.

In a later motion, passed 5-1 with McKinley dissenting, Gundelach was temporarily prohibited by the board, pending a licensing hearing and on penalty of immediate dismissal, from operating any water craft, either privately or on agency business, and was directed to seek an evaluation for possible substance abuse.

Gundelach indicated that he "was pleased with the board's decision," but could not comment on the issues of the pending case.

Following the meeting, Dam indicated his belief that the boards' opposition to his recommendation regarding Gundelach was driven by an ongoing conflict between himself and some of its members.

"It was a 'show me,'" Dam said.

St. Peter sale includes cars

This year the St. Peter Church has two automobiles, a rowboat, a boat with a trailer and a motor, and a collection of 500 cookbooks for its 38th Rummage Sale. Other items continue to be donated.

Sun 11-3

The annual drive to obtain donations is now underway, according to Claudette Skvarce. Donations may be dropped off at St. Peter School between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. until June 25.

"I believe we are the second biggest running sale in Lake County," Skvarce said. "Our prices are very reasonable."

The widely known sale will be June 26 (8 a.m. to 9 p.m.), June 27 (same hours), June 28 (8 a.m. to 6 p.m.), and June 29 (8 a.m. to 4 p.m.). "This is the time to make donations," she stressed. "We also give receipts for donations for tax purposes."

The goal is to raise at least $42,000, the amount of last year's sale, Skvarce said. The funds are used to benefit the entire parish. "The St. Peter Council of Catholic Women distributes the money," she said. Past purchases include a walkin cooler, a new oven, new drapes for the cafeteria, and money for school enrichment programs. "The Father makes sure it is appropriately spent," she said.

"Bring your truck and load it up," Skvarce urges. She points to a wide variety of materials for sale. They have food, an antique department, a jewelry department, a linen department, 5 rooms of clothing, a "French Room" clothing, and a gymnasium filled with knick knack and furniture. "We do have old antiques, wicker, a couch, two chairs, a table, and a smoker to match," she said. There are eight dressers, 12 couches, lots of bicycles, and "lots of lawnmowers." There were 23 lawnmowers last year.

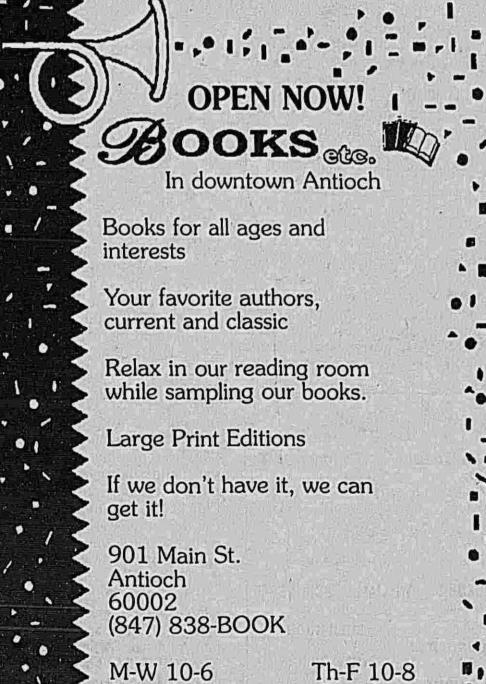

"A lot of our customers shop three and four times," Skvarce said.

The cars are a 1988 Dodge Aries, blue, and a 1979 Cadillac, tan. "It's a big one," Skvarce said. —By Kenneth Patchen

Train jumping ends in death

Downers Grove teen killed in Lake Villa

By ALEC JUNGE Staff Reporter

A joyride on a freight train ended in death for a Downers Grove 18year-old as he made an ill-fated jump off a moving Wisconsin Central train in Lake Villa.

Killed in the June 10, 6 a.m. incident was Brent Cobb, 18. Dennis Radtke, 18, of Downers Grove, suffered a minor arm injury, while a 17-year-old not identified by police, escaped with no injury, according to Lt. Roger Visconti, Lake Villa Police Department.

"The other two were able to jump off OK and he apparently became nervous and hung on to the bar too long and got caught under the train when he jumped," Visconti said.

Cobb was taken by a Flight-For-Life helicopter to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. Emergency surgery was performed, but doctors were unable to save him. He was pronounced dead at 12:15 p.m., June 10.

"His major problem was head trauma," said Cindee Castronovo. spokesperson. "He had extensive damage to his left foot."

According to Visconti, the three jumped on a train in a box car in the middle of the cars at the Bedford Park area sometime between 2:30-4 a.m.

"They became concerned where the train might end up and decided to jump," Visconti said.

The train, carrying 78 cars, is believed to be traveling at about 35-40 mph when they decided to jump. They jumped off at around the 700 block of Milwaukee Ave. near the Cedar Lake bridge.

Charges are likely for Radtke. The 17-year-old will likely face juvenile referral.

Lake Villa police will continue the investigation of the incident and possible charges. Wisconsin Central Security will investigate the speed of the accident.

Grocery customer pulls knife on officer

A Wildwood man pulled a 12inch butcher knife on the manager of the Grayslake Piggly Wiggly grocery store and a Grayslake police officer, landing himself in the St. Therese psychiatric ward.

The incident occurred June 10, in the morning when Efrem Habte Gebreselassie 21, of 33418 Park Street, was confronted by employees of the Grayslake grocery store after reportedly shoplifting a package of razor blades.

"He was confronted by the employees and at one point wielded a 120-inch butcher knife and threatened to stab a male employee," according to Grayslake Administrative Sergeant Matt McCutcheon.

A store employee called the Grayslake station to report the incident, but at that time Gebreselassie hadn't yet drawn the knife, so when Grayslake Sergeant Tom Woodruff arrived, he didn't know that the situation had progressed.

By the time Woodruff arrived, Gebreselassie had cornered the store manager in the office. The suspect pulled the knife out from behind his leg when the sergeant entered the room and made a slashing motion towards him.

"Sergeant Woodruff drew his weapon and ordered him several times to drop the knife and he (Gebreselassie) said 'go ahead and shoot me, I want you to shoot me," Mc-Cutcheon related. "He finally dropped the knife."

Gebreselassie was charged with one count of retail theft and two counts of aggravated assault before being transported to St. Therese on the advice of his psychiatric physician.

McCutcheon said the suspect was given a I-Bond, which means he signed for the bond amount and the hospital may release him since he only received misdemeanor charges. Gebreselassie has a June 30 court date.

Cowboy dream kept alive at Little Britches Rodeo

By ELIZABETH EAKEN Staff Reporter

Cowpokes, broncos or buckaroos, however you prefer to describe them, hundreds of little aspirants to the role, will be moseying on over to the Big Z Riding Club for the Little Britches Rodeo, June 14 and 15.

This is the first Little Britches Rodeo is to be held in these parts, but it is hoped to become an annual event. Boys and girls age 6-18 will be competing in the rodeo beginning at 1 p.m. both days.

President of Big Z, Rick Wurtzinger, said the Little Britches Rodeo is a nationwide organization run locally by state level organizations. The Big Z hosted rodeo is actually under the auspices of Little Britches of Wisconsin, Ltd.

"The kids are trying to keep the dream alive of being a cowboy. They grow up watching the movies, Wurtzinger said.

There's plenty to keep spectators entertained if his descriptions are appropriate. The boys all ride bulls. Even the little ones ride bull calves which are chosen for age categories based on their weight. A strict dress code encourages the participants to wear western style clothing including the boots, hats and long sleeve Categories for the show include: Rough Stock Bareback, for boys ages 6-11, 12-14 and 15 and up; Saddle Bronc for boys age 13 and up and Bull Riding for all three boys age classes. Girls events include barrel racing, goat tying and break away roping for all three age classes. Team Roping is open to girls and boys in all classes.

The event draws competitors from a wide geographical area with the largest concentration from Lake and Kenosha Counties.

Local Century 21 office cares about kids

On Saturday, July 19 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Century 21 Epifanio United will host its fourth annual "Project KidCare" photo ID event during the "Taste of Antioch" festival. The KidCare project offers free ID kits to parents which include a photograph and the child's weight, height and other vital statistics. At last year's event, nearly 700 local children participated, with their parents receiving the free kit.

"Of course, we hope that none of the families will ever need to use these documents," stated Joe Epifanio, owner of Epifanio United. "But we are pleased to play such a vital role in helping to keep children in our community safe."

Again this year, employees of

Century 21 Epifanio United, located at 974 Main St., will be on hand to weigh, measure and photograph the kids. "It is because of the commitment of people like our agents and sponsors that these events are so successful," added Epifanio. "We are really looking forward to identifying even more children this year."

For those wishing further information, or for any business who would like to become a sponsor, call Century 21 Epifanio United at 395-5900.

Century 21 Real Estate Corp. a subsidiary of HFS Incorporated (NYSE:HFS), is the largest real estate sales organization in the world, with approximately 6,400 independently owned and operated franchised broker offices in 21 countries and territories worldwide.

Who needs Hallmark to show dad how much we care his Sunday is the day we should all pause and honor that person in our life that contributed immensely to our personalities, habits and idiosyncrasies. No, not our moms they did their best to instill good manners and decent grooming techniques, we are talking about our dads here. You know the guy who thinks napkins are for sissy's and bloody noses how tough you are.

In this day and age men are a lot less macho and a lot more domesticated. Dad's in the 90's do laundry, cook dinner and have been known to scrub out a bathtub. Dad's from previous generations rarely even knew what all those appliances in the house were used for. The only time they came in contact with an appliance was when mom would say, "Normie the washing machine is not working." Dad would descend down into the bowels of the basement and return with his trusty hammer and a fresh roll of duct tape. Everything that ever broke in the history of the Schreiber household was fixed with a well placed pop of a hammer and duct tape.

One time I was trying to read my new Archie comic book while mowing the lawn. I ran the tractor smack dab into a huge apple tree. Naturally, it quit cutting the lawn and instead sat hugging the trunk of the tree. The headlights were hanging by a cord, one tire went flat and there was a substance dripping from under the hood. Most kids would have run-away rather than face their dad with this grim predicament-not me. When dad got home from work, he was thrilled with my little escapade. It gave him a reason to rummage around in the basement, exit with his hammer and duct tape and perform his magic. The tractor was purring like new before dinner.

As kids when we misbehaved, mom always threatened us that major punishments were going to come our way when dad got home from work. We all knew better. Even though Dad's get the bad rap for being the disciplinary in the house, we knew it wasn't the yelling and hollering parent we had to watch out for. It was that sneaky, quiet mom that really knew how to put us in our place. When you least expect it, like on Main Street during the Fourth of July Parade, in front of the entire town, mom would grab your hand and hold it in a vise-like grip when you crossed the street. Public humiliation is worse than any spanked behind. Dad's would never

As for child rearing, dad's always seem to get the less tarnished image. Mom's make you go to bed at bed time, dad's don't care when you go to bed, especially if you're willing to run back and forth from the living room to the kitchen to replenish his diminished food supply as he lay watching the sporting event of his choice.

Dad's take you to places like football stadiums, driving ranges and car races. Mom's take you to the mall. Dad's take you outside to play ball, hunt frog's and saw down trees. Mom's make you stay in to do your homework and practice your piano. Dad's give you pizza, pop and potato chips for dinner. Mom's make you eat vegetables and drink Skim milk. Mom's teach you how to listen. Dad's teach you how to tune out mom.

So, this Sunday, when dad is all reared back in his new hammock, reading the Sunday paper and sampling his favorite cool beverage, run up to him, give him a great big hug and thank him for all the joy and knowledge he has provided you with. Then make your dad proud by wiping your nose on your shirt sleeve and reciting the letters of the alphabet in one long burp.

Happy Father's Day—especially to Normie.

And so goes another "Jingle From Pringle"-don't forget to call 395-6364.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Fair weather fans? Not around here

Tell, it's now the middle of June, and all you basketball fans know what that means—the NBA Finals. Many of you may already know that I am a big basketball fan, but one thing has surfaced lately that I want to address, both on a professional and amateur level—fair weather fans.

We all know about the typical fair weather fan—the fan that only supports a team when it is doing well and everyone is jumping on the bandwagon, but he/she is the first to jump off the bandwagon at the slightest hint of a downswing. I've been able to deal with this sort of sports fans over the years, but recently, another breed has cropped up—the fair weather anti-fan.

Now let me explain. This seems to happen only when a team achieves success over a long period of time. For example: the Chicago Bulls. When the Bulls were struggling to make the playoffs in the 80s, people would complain about the team. When the Bulls were on the cusp of a championship in the late 80s and early 90s, people loved them. Once they won the NBA championship, the Bulls had a huge following that adored them. But these days, with four rings on their fingers and another looming in the near future, a number of once-fans have turned against the beloved Bulls. Why?

Maybe people just love to root for the underdog. Maybe people think that extended winning breeds cockiness. Maybe people are just sick and tired of seeing the red, black and white in the NBA Finals. Whatever the reason, a growing number of people are turning against the Bulls. It's happened before—remember the Dallas Cowboys? Granted, they tarnished their own image, but long before then people started to turn on the Dallas

Granted, the sports media (myself included) has helped this along by trying to find any weakness in a team that is so good, just trying to find that little chink in the armor that will lead to an interesting story.

This brings me to the local sports scene. It is highly unlikely that any high school team would lose fans simply by being very good year after year. The students and parents and athletes and supporters will always cheer for their school's teams. And that is the beauty of the sports in Lake County. Loyalty and support are never a question, and dynasties don't last very long—usually.

Ly congratulations to all of the local teams that competed in the playoffs and state tournaments over the last couple of weeks. In upcoming weeks I will be running the All-Lakeland Teams, like the All-Lakeland Track and Field athletes that appears in this week's issue.

ACHS can't get past Mustangs

Sequoits girls softball falls to MHS 4-1 in sectional semifinals

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Ten years from now, when Antioch softball players recall the season that was 1997, they will remember one thing.

From a bus ride to and from Peoria, to key come-from-behind wins over Libertyville and wrapping up a share of the North Suburban Conference crown with a sweep of rival Warren, this was the year fun came back to softball in Antioch.

The 27-12 season record helps, but there was nothing quite like a team breakfast or hopping on a trampoline at a player's house to bring a team together.

"I'll miss everyone. There is a lot of emotion now. I knew they were going to be tough, but we wanted to beat them," said Nicole Langley.

The "Them" was Mundelein. While Antioch brought its dugout banners to Barrington's Field of Dreams, the Mustangs went about business in a 4-1 win.

"I wish we would have hit the ball better. She (MHS pitcher Katie Prezell) was tough, but not as tough as the 8-0 loss," said Langley.

Langley got to know teammates Jamie Silarski and Liz Koeck particularly well. They represented the ACHS battery in the last game, with Silarski finishing with an 18-7 mark.

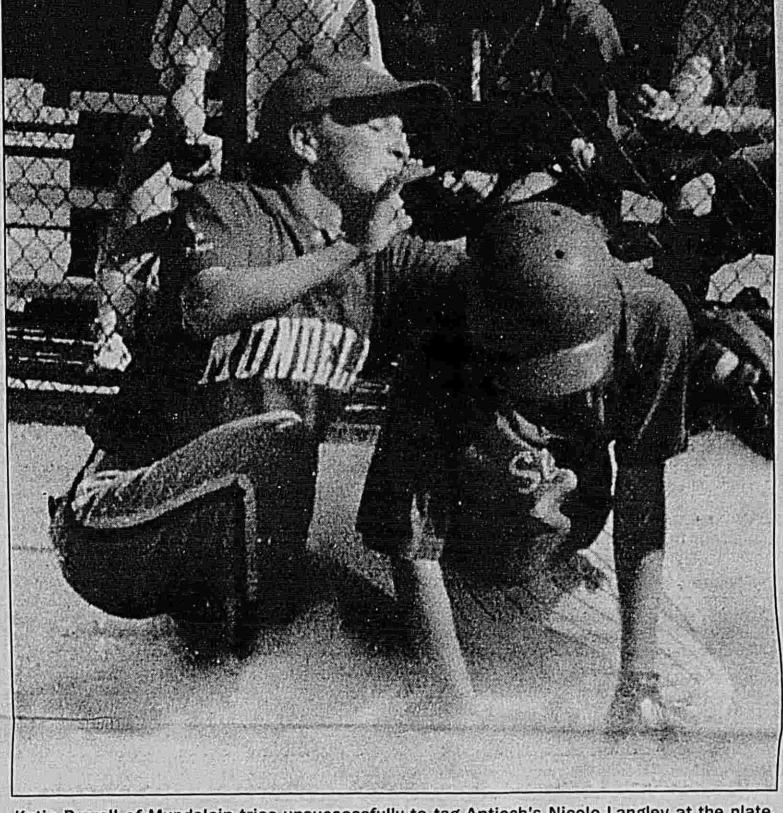

"There are a lot of close friends on this team. We did a lot of cool things. Like after a game against Stevenson, we went out to dinner," said Langley.

"We ran out of magic. We had come back so many times, but we ran out of magic," said ACHS coach Steve Wapon.

Langley did her best to try and keep a two-out seventh inning rally going. Down 4-1, pinch-hitter Jocelyn McRae, who is fast and has an on-base average of over .540, singled.

A second pinch hitter, Shannah Jaburek, did the same.

Nicole Langley singled, but instead of leaving the bases loaded, the final out came at home plate on some excellent defense by Mundelein.

"We had our chances - we did not quit," said Wapon.

Katie Prezell got the key outs she needed and let the MHS defense do the rest.

"We know Prezell well. But we never were able to put the pressure on them," said Wapon.

ACHS had another chance in the fourth inning. Two singles and a walk were followed by an inning ending bouncer back to Prezell.

Silarski walked to start the second inning, but was picked off first base on a call questioned by the ACHS faithful.

Misty Blue, a sophomore third baseman who was not a regular when the teams played league games, had three of the four RBIs for Mundelein.

MHS coach Perry Wihelm, seeking a second straight trip to Pekin after the win, praised the conquered.

"They definitely deserved to be here. Steve (Wapon) does a great job. We were not surprised they were here.

ACHS's squad held its heads high leaving Lake County's version of Field of Dreams.

"We still have a share of a conference title and a regional championship and we aren't giving them back," said Wapon.

Hughes leads talented returning Sequoits

Versatile junior
MVP heads group
of skilled players
looking forward to next year

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Late season recap:

Versatility is an important skill in any job and that is one of the main qualities for the most valuable player for Antioch High's baseball team.

Junior Reggie Hughes was voted by teammates for that honor. He will be one of several starters back for next year after ACHS bids adieu to five seniors.

Hughes finished with a .507 on-base average, .777 fielding average and .453 batting average. He paced the squad with 33 RBIs.

"It is something that the team voted on. Reggie caught and played outfield for us. He worked hard at both positions to help the team," said coach Paul Petty of Hughes' team MVP honor.

ACHS finished 18-17, 5-9 in the North Suburban Conference. The Sequoits split post-season games, beating Grayslake 5-2 but losing to Zion-Benton 7-2 in the regional semifinals.

In an age of one-catcher teams, the Sequoits had a bevy of ironmen this year. Dan Pendergast was as steady as they come behind the plate with a .962 fielding average. Sophomore Jason Schuler is a back-up catcher who saw playing time.

The shortstop position continued to be well handled by Chris Groth. Groth played 31 of 35 games there and hit .468 and led the team with 15 stolen bases. He was named All-NSC as a third-year starter.

"He could knock down anything that came to him. He took away a lot of hits," said Petty.

Johnson was third in the batting order.

Senior third baseman Stu Johnson earned all NSC honors. He hit .418 and had a slugging average of .664. He is likely to attend the College of Lake County next fall.

Pitcher Mike Neilsen earned the most improved award.

"He had four or five outstanding outings. He had control of his offspeed pitches.," said Petty.

He finished with a team high 66 percent strikes ratio, an 8-7 record, an ERA of 2.44 in 17 appearances.

Brett McCollum had a 5-4 mark with one save. He had an ERA of Earning the title of Mr. Courage goes to second baseman Mike Sodaro. He completed his senior year in baseball, but it was not easy.

"I am proud of that kid. He almost crawled onto the field. He had a lot of pain from a knee injury but he was out there against Zion in the last game," said Petty.

The Sequoits' offense was in high gear in the regional win. Pendergast was 2-4, Brubash 2-3 as was George Fuchs.

The tables were turned two days later against the Zee-Bees. "They hit a ton," said Petty.

The season started with a doubleheader split with eventual regional champ Wauconda and Waukegan followed by non-conference wins over Grant and Woodstock. A 9-6 win over Mundelein broke a three-game loss streak. The season ended on a four-of-five run before the Zion

With much of the team still in tact, the Sequoits could be poised for a strong summer league, beginning with a home game against Buffalo Grove June 16.

Rock, Glow & Bowl

Bowling alleys turn down the lights, turn up the fun and revive an old pastime

By JEFF PATERSON Staff Reporter

t's a summer Saturday night in Johnsburg, and youth are having fun at a new village hot spot. Strobes, lasers and a fog machine create a mysterious atmosphere in the darkened room. Black lights make party wear T-shirts, bracelets, socks, and even shoelaces, glow in neon greens, oranges and pinks.

On the hardwood floor, dozens of teenagers are gyrating to the retro sounds of "Y.M.C.A." by the Village People and the latest track by the Spice Girls.

A new dance club? No. It's the bowling alley.

The place is Raymond's Johnsburg Bowl, located on North Chapel Hill Road and owned and operated by the Cuna family as a traditional 12-lane, 10-pin facility for almost 20 years. Although the traditional game still continues, the technical innovations now in place in the alley for about three months have brought a new look, and a new appeal, to an old pastime.

"We'd read about it in the bowling magazines and it seemed like the up and coming thing, and it has been," said Steve Cuna. "It's getting more people into the bowling alley, a younger crowd, and it's a change of pace.

Typically referred to as "rock and glow" or "cosmic" bowling, the changes in Johnsburg are part of a national trend which has revitalized the sport by removing the pressure to make the 7-10 split and attracting a younger clientele to play, many for the first time.

'I think it's popular probably just because it's a place where my friends can have fun," says Valerie Cuna, 15.

Her contemporaries agree.

"I like it. It's really a different experience compared to regular bowling," said Brian Weidner, 18, of McHenry. "I hadn't bowled much, but a bunch of my friends said 'why don't we go out tonight,' so why not?"

"It's kind of cool and isn't just for teenagers," said Amy Wanea, 16, of Johnsburg, noting that the ability of players to dance while awaiting their turn has helped to add to

Offered on Friday and Saturday nights, for children's bumper bowling birthday parties, adult Scotch Doubles, and a special Thursday Teen night to which players can bring their own music CDs, "rock and glow" has a good chance at extending the traditional fall-winter season to make the alleys popular year-round.

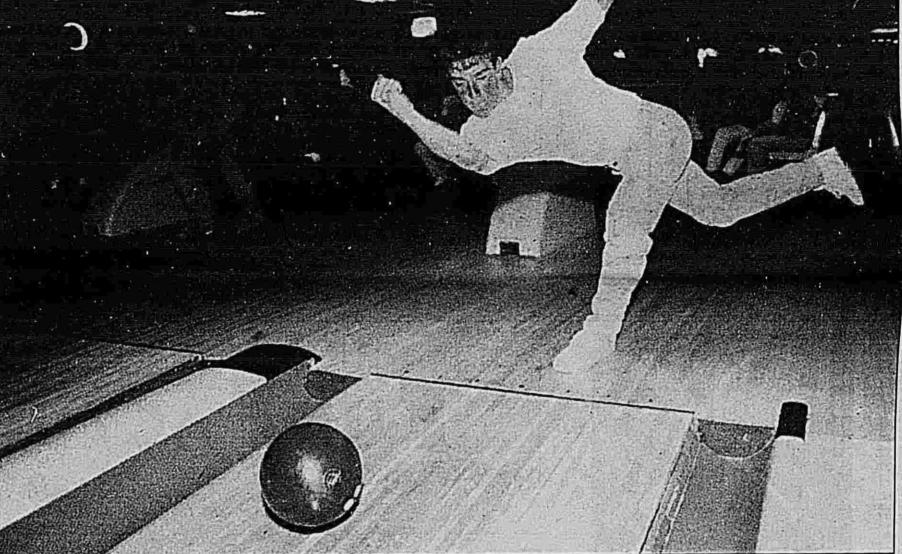

"Normally our summers are pretty slow, and it's helped us out a lot," Steve Cuna said. "Last night, we had all 12 lanes going and there were people waiting. We're suggesting that people call and reserve lanes because it has been busy like that."

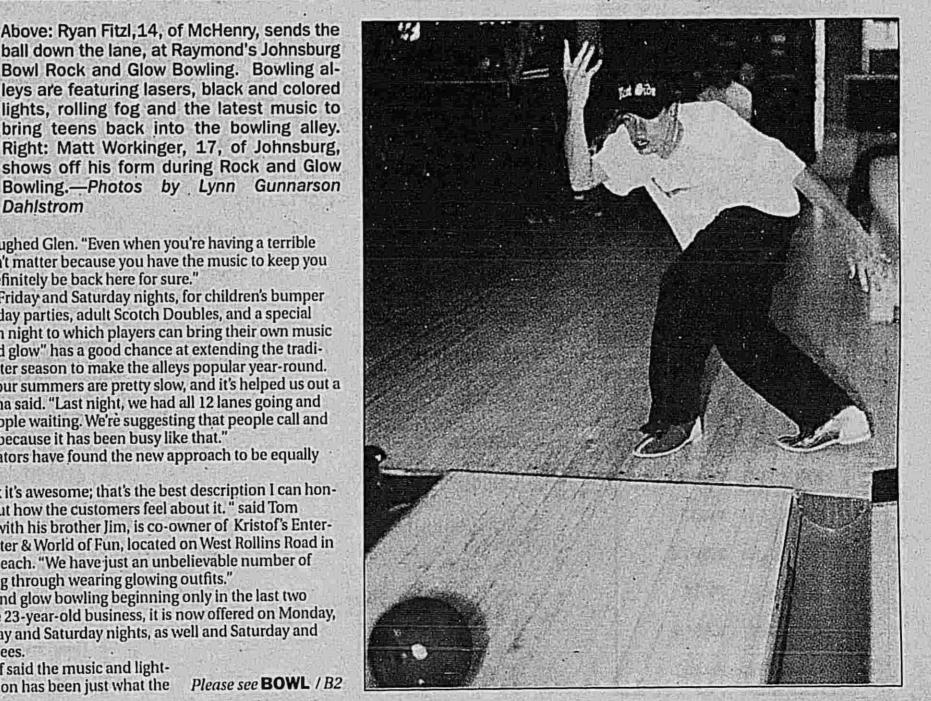

Other operators have found the new approach to be equally

"They think it's awesome; that's the best description I can honestly give about how the customers feel about it. " said Tom Kristof, who, with his brother Jim, is co-owner of Kristof's Entertainment Center & World of Fun, located on West Rollins Road in Round Lake Beach. "We have just an unbelievable number of people coming through wearing glowing outfits."

With rock and glow bowling beginning only in the last two months at the 23-year-old business, it is now offered on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights, as well and Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Tom Kristof said the music and lighting combination has been just what the Please see BOWL / B2 doctor ordered for a sport which has been ailing in recent years because of a lack of a way to widen its ap-

"Bowling as an industry was beginning to fall off, but this has been popular," Kristof said. "We have a saying that 'we turn down the lights and turn up the fun,' and it's really true; the kids love it and the parents love it."

Joe Klask, mechanic for Lakes Bowl on Route 134 in Round Lake, helped to install the needed equipment in May of last year and the business currently offers "rock and glow" on Friday, Saturday and Monday nights and also offers a parent/child league on Thursdays.

"It gives kids something to do instead of being on the street. They come in here and have a good time," Klask said.

Like many other operations, including Kristof's, Lakes Bowl is successfully widening the appeal of "rock and glow" by varying the music. At Lakes Bowl, the phenomenon is even appealing to seniors by playing Big Band-ear tunes.

In the long term, however, the real pay-off to the alley operators may lie in the simple introduction of new players to bowling.

"Maybe we'll get some younger people into bowling. The kids come in with their friends and hopefully they'll end up joining a league somewhere down the line. That's our goal," Klask said.

Enjoy Father's Day on the water

Come see some of the country's most talented, most daring show ski teams, hailing from Midwest towns such as Twin Lakes, Wis., Elkhorn, Wis., and Rockford, Ill make their annual appearance at Lambs Farm on Father's Day, Sunday, June 15, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Skiers will thrill the crowds as they attempt to capture the coveted Lambs Farm crown. This tournament is sanctioned by the American Water Ski Assn. (AWSA). Admission and parking are free. No picnic baskets or coolers—all concessions sales benefit Lambs Farm.

Four-tier human pyramids that involve up to 25 skiers all behind one powerful towboat, teams of 12 or more barefooting behind a single boat, and multiple jumpers simultaneously performing dangerous acrobatic maneuvers off a 5 1/2 foot jump ramp are just some of the thrilling performances. But the skiers aren't the only stuntmen in this business; the towboat drivers get the crowd's adrenaline pumping when they "walk" their boats to a completely verti-CHECK IT OUT! cal position.

inally—the moment you've all been waiting for! No, not six matching numbers in the lottery—I'm waiting for that, too, but that's not the moment I'm talking about. This is even better... okay, it's not better, but it's not bad, either. It's...dum, da, da, dum... the results of the Life's A Bear Reader's Survey!

First of all, I have to tell you that when I was through reading the hundreds of responses I gotokay, the tens of responses-okay, seven responses! Anyway, after reading them, I felt like Sally Field at the Academy Awards. I just sat in my chair, weighed down by all that mail, or maybe it was the cinnamon raison bagel with cream cheese, and I said aloud "They like me! They really like me. All seven of them!"

Of course, then my husband had to ruin the moment by yelling from the kitchen, "Did you get a letter from the seven dwarfs again?"

Seriously, though, I appreciate all of you who took the time to respond to my survey. I even appreciate those of you who did not respond, especially if you think I'm a moron. That kind of abuse I can get at home from my children.

In general, you all said that you enjoy my column and think I'm funny, you want to hear more about my relatives (that groaning your hear right now is my relatives), you either wear pajamas or "none of the above" (I, personally, wear "all of the above"), and that you will give me your cash card pin number when "hell freezes over and/or O.J.

from the rest. The first was a response from a very generous woman named "Duckie" from Chicago, who did actually give me what looks to be her cash card pin number, a request I had thrown in just as a joke. However, I think the joke's on me because she also said she's funnier than me because she's a politician. Nice try, Duckie, but you can keep those unreported campaign funds! Especially since you forgot to send my your cash card!

The second and funniest response (from a non-politician) came from a 17-year-old named Jami, from Libertyville. Jami is obviously a humor columnist in training or, in layman's terms, a wise guy! To my request for a cash card pin number, she answered, "What do I look like-a Lipservice person?" And to my request for any comments, she said, "I'm only 17, but your column is great to read when the papers arrives-not like I wait for it!"

Well, Jami, all I can say is that if I didn't know better, I'd think maybe you were that child I gave up for adoption!

(Not to my family-the previous sentence was a joke. Honest)!

All in all, I enjoyed reading each and every one of the responses I received, and I want to thank you folks again for participating in my survey. I'd also like to thank all of you for checking the box that said "the newspaper should double her Donna Abear can also be head as a guest humorist on WXLC 102.3 FM's morning show at 7:10 a.m. on alternate Mondays.

MOVIE PICK

Kramer joins top court jesters

In real life when an appearance in court is required, we consider it to be more of a tragedy than a comedy. Not so in "reel" life, especially when you consider funny films like "My Cousin Vinny," "Liar, Liar," and now, "Trial and Error."

"Vinny" and "Liar" were funny movies. Michael Richards of "Seinfeld" fame, is just possibly a little funnier in his big screen star debut.

Jeff Daniels, his straight man, and he have a good comic rapport which keeps this movie tickling your funny bone.

Attorney Daniels can't make a court appearance after being beaten up by bikers at a bachelor party his pal Richards tosses him. Thinking the court thing will just be a fast continuance request, Daniels has Richards masquerade as his legal self. The fun comes when Richards fails to get a continuance and must go on handling Daniels' case or both will go to jail for perpetrating a fraud against the justice system.

When Daniels in turn becomes a potential stroke victim, hoping Richards will understand and follow his "legal" signals, the laughs come fast and furiously and there is more insanity, temporary or otherwise, in this courtroom than just the plea.

Richards' TV character stands him in good stead, making his big screen transfer the success that most TV sitcom stars don't experiromance in to sweeten the pot, with Daniels hovering around waitress Charlize Theron, who is more refreshing than his witchy fiancee, and Richards having a thing with his opposing attorney, played by Jessica Steen.

"about nothing," but isn't his adeptness at making us laugh at "nothing" what gave Richards his new mega bucks TV contract?

This is a pleasing little comedy with a hint of hilarity now and then, so we give "Trial and Error," 3.5 stars out of a possible five. "Trial" carries a PG-13 rating.-By Gloria Davis

The rose enjoys a noble history

ne part of the garden which has changed little over centuries is the rose bed. In the past I have spoken about how much I love the rose. In researching its' history I found it to be quite interesting, and thought I would like to share it with Roses were originally grown for medicinal purposes. They were believed to be a cure all for over 100 ailments, including whooping cough and worms. They were also grown for their religious symbolism. White represented the Virgin Mary's Immaculate Conception, and red Christ's blood. Then finally they were grown for their perfume and their beauty.

Roses were first cultivated by the Chinese over 2,000 years ago. By the time of the Sung Dynasty 900 years ago, 41 species were grown in China. The only roses available in Europe were the native roses grown in the countryside, The Rosa Canina or dog (that is, common) rose. Charlemagne (742-814-AD) the Roman Emperor was an avid gardener. Over 60 species of plants were grown in his garden, among them Rosa Gallica-the French Rose, the variety with semi-double light crimson flowers. It is also called the Red Rose of Lancaster. Rosa Gallica was also the main parent of the numerous shrub roses which were developed later.

GARDEN JOURNAL

Lydia Huff

Roses have had a long history politically. In the days of the Roman Empire, if a rose was hung from the ceiling during a meeting it signified nothing was to be discussed-"subrosa." In the early Catholic Church, the confessional often had a white rose painted above the entrance, signifying confidentiality of the confessional.

In the War of the Roses fought in England from 1455 to 1485, the House of York was represented by the white rose of the House of Lancaster by the red rose, the two houses fought bitterly for the English crown.

The year 1789 was a pivotal one for the rose. Prior to that time, roses bloomed only once, and for a short period. In that year the China Rose came to France and England. The tea rose soon followed. They had the unique quality of blooming for several months at a time. These two roses are the ancestors of today's hybrid tea roses.

Napoleon Bonaparte's first wife, the Empress Josephine cultivated 256 varieties of roses including Bourbon, Centifolia, China, Damask, Gallica, Moss, Noisette and Rugosa. From crosses and backcrosses of these roses have come the roses we are familiar with today. Hybrid perpetuals (1837) hybrid teas (1869) polyanthas (1875) floribundas (1924) and grandifloras

I have always loved the beauty and fragrance of the rose. A pink bud always reminds me of my grandmother, who would pin them in her hair. The bright tangerine hue brings back memories of my godfather, who loved raising roses.

With modern technology of gene splicing and cloning who can imagine what the future of the rose can be! Breeders and Hybridizers have long been working on stronger, disease resistant varieties for years. Perhaps some day we will see a frost resistant, disease and pest resistant, thornless rose which everblooms. But, I think that should take the fun out of the challenge to grow a strong, beautiful rose without chemicals, (at least for me)! As you enjoy your roses remember what an astute past they have enjoyed and what a promising future they may bring to your gardening adventure. Until next time, peace.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Sunset Blvd.'s' depression catching

If you were one of the many who caught the two movies about silent film star Nora Desmond and her young love, you already know the story upon which music mogul Andrew Lloyd Weber based his trouble-plagued musical "Sunset Blvd." If you are a Carol Burnett fan you will recognize the plot which hatched one of her prominent TV comic characters.

These are the lucky ones since the rest of the audience at the Civic Opera House has a hard time following the storyline because Linda Balgord, who plays Nora Desmond in an otherwise excellent Chicago road company of the award winning Broaway musical, gives a completely unintelligible performance in a voice filled with far too much vibrato. This makes things difficult since Weber's efforts are usually operas with no dialogue.

Another surprise comes when a line in the script refers to Balgord's age as 50 something. Her entire demeanor, had us putting her into the 75 plus category.

Co-star Ron Bohmer's writer/loser on the other hand is vibrant as he commands the stage with every song.

Ed Dixon, who plays Max the. faithful zombie-like butler, does a faithful zombie-like Eric Vonstroheim imitation.

The real scene stealer just happens to be the set designer, John Napier, whose magnificent "inside of the Victorian mansion," is more than spectacular. Traveling movies are also a perk.

Other standouts are the authentic art decor costume designs by Anthony Powell. This is not a pleasant plot which tells the pitiful story of a faded silent film star who has not relegated to the demise of her career. She is attended by her faithful butler and a Grade C Hollywood gigolo whose body floating in Desmond's pool opens the show.

Ron Bohmer and Linda Balgord tell the pitiful story of a faded silent film star in Weber's "Sunset Blvd.

The dramatic ending suffers a lot of damage as Balgord floats down the magnificent staircase and her line is the same as Burnett's, " I'm ready for my closeup now Mr. DeMille.'

. The show's big hit, "With One Look," is just one ingredient in a musical score that if it is not a memorable one, is a liltingly pleasing one. The title song and "The Greatest Star of All," contribute to the show's enjoyment.—By Gloria

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20 While you may feel like a snitch, you have to report a co-worker for an insubordinate act. Don't let it affect the quality of your work

- and don't let it get you down. Your fellow employees support you. Your help is needed with a family problem later in the week. Try to be objective. Cancer and Capricorn play important roles.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Even though you usually don't let your temper get the best of you, you feel like you're going to explode this week. Take some time off of work to relax and clear your mind and don't feel guilty about it. Loved ones also will try your patience. Even though it may be difficult, don't let your family's opinions upset you. Think of yourself first.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

Up and down, up and down — that's how your emotions will be this week. One minute, you'll be fine, and the next, you'll be livid. Even though you've been under a lot of pressure recently, you should try to remain calm. Your anger only will get you in trouble at work and hurt the ones you love. Leo plays an important role.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

You get the attention you've been craving at work this week, Cancer. After a co-worker drops a project in your lap, you pick up the ball and run for a touchdown. The higherups are impressed with your efforts. A loved one asks for your opinion about a relationship. Be objective, not judgmental.

Leo - July 23/August 23

You are Leo - hear you roar! All of your efforts seem to pay off at work and at home this week. You receive well-deserved praise from superiors at the office, and your family spoils you with affection. That special someone lets you know that he or she reciprocates your feelings. Don't be shy now.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

You have to overcome your fear of crowds this week, because you're surrounded by people no matter where you go. At work, you have to give a presentation to several co-workers and higher-ups; at home, you're put into the middle of a family debate. Even though you feel uncomfortable, you'll succeed if you remain calm.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

While you hate to be rude, it is the only way that you'll get people to listen to you this week. Co-workers are wrapped up in longterm projects, and loved ones have problems of their own. Take a stand if you want to get noticed.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You let your emotions show this week, and it feels good. You finally have had enough of taking a backseat to co-workers who don't have as much talent as you. Superiors understand your feelings. A friend of a friend calls you up to get together. Seize the opportunity. Taurus plays a role.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Your optimism is the driving force at work early in the week. While others are letting some bad corporate news upset their performance, your outlook sets everyone back on track. A loved one involves you in a family argument. Don't take sides; just get those involved to listen to each other.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

When it comes to getting what you want this week, don't be shy. Let others know what you desire. Nobody looks out for you like you do. Don't let a mishap at work stand in your way. A special relationship takes a turn for the worse, but don't get upset. It's only a temporary setback.

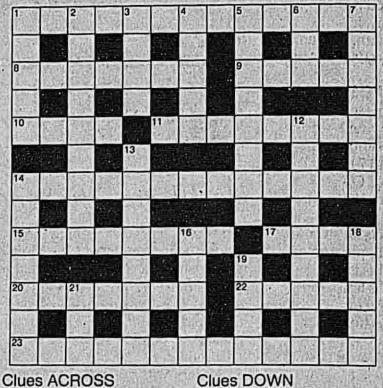

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Try to keep the peace at work this week, even when your co-workers turn their backs on you. You're not alone - your manager is on your side. You won't feel alone at all when it comes to family. Loved ones are there to support you through this rough time. You meet someone who piques your interest. Don't shy away from him or her.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Everything is coming up roses at work this week, and you're enjoying it. However, don't get greedy for rewards; it's not like you. You make a lot of progress when it comes to repairing a relationship with a friend. While it is hard work, it is worth it.

The State of Hawaii actually consists of a chain of islands, the five major of which are Oahu, Maui, Kauai, Molokai and one actually named Hawaii, but better known as the "Big

You're probably most familiar with Honolulu and its tourist area of Wakiki beach which is on the more populated, and most visited, island of Oahu. Today, however, we're going to talk about the largest, but one of the least visited of the Hawaiian Islands, and the name-sake of the state. I'm speaking of course of the Big Island of Hawaii.

You'll not find the "Don Ho Show" playing at any of the night clubs on the Big Island. In fact, you'll be hard pressed to even find a night club except maybe at one of the larger

You will find orchards, farms, a coffee plantation, and a 1/4 million acre cattle ranch, complete with Hawaiian cowboys.

You can sun yourself on beaches of the color of your choice. On the Big Island beaches come in white, black, yellow and even emerald green.

I once hiked through a tropical valley on the Big Island where I found wild oranges the size of grapefruits and crystal clear streams filled with rare freshwater shrimp. The Big Island is home to both an active volcano, spurring a river of fiery lava into the ocean, as well as a 14,000 foot snow covered mountain. Talk about fire and ice! If the Big Island interest you, plan on spending a day or two in the Hilo area, even though it's on the "rainy" side of the island. You'll get plenty of sun later on the Kona side of the

Hilo will be your base for visiting Volcano National Park where you can hike down into

While in Hilo, get up early one morning and visit the fish auction at the Susian Fish Market for a good photo op of Hawaii's local fishing fleet and their catch. Then head over to Banyan Drive with its canopy of banyan trees with plaques identifying who planted them. You'll find names like Amelia Earhart and Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

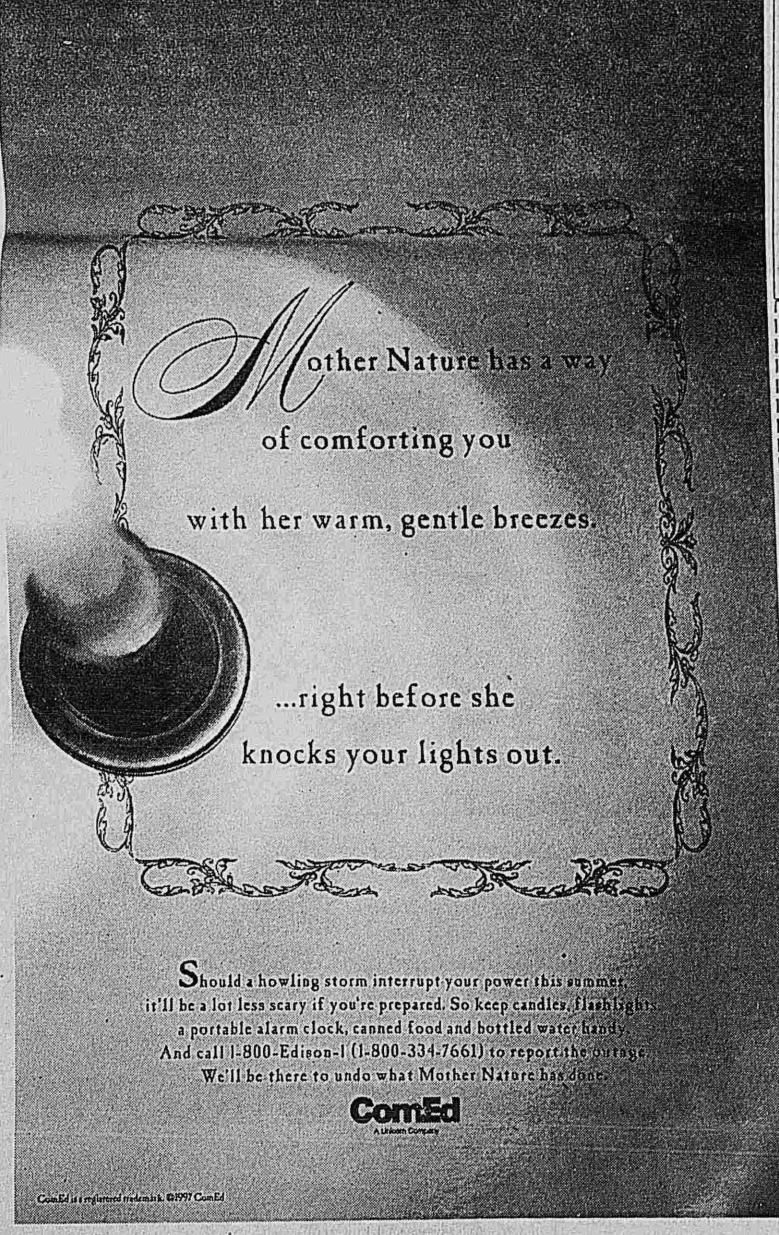

After a visit to the orchid farms and many waterfalls, complements of the afternoon rains you're likely to encounter in Hilo, it's time to head to sunny beaches of Kona.

Add zest to pedaling

Join team for MS 150 bike tour

In 1996, some 77 teams of four or more cyclists raised about one third of the total $355,000 earned by the annual MS 150 "Ride to the Rock" Bike Tour. Teams again will add flavor to the 16th annual ride scheduled for June 21 and 22 presented by the Chicago-Greater Illinois Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society for the benefit of MS research and client services offered in 73 central and northern Illinois counties.

The top team last year was Midwest Express, captained by Alan Martin of Wheaton. The team overall raised $17,480 and Martin himself was the top fund raiser at $10,715.

Among other top teams returning for this year's ride are the Northern Trust Big Wheels, with Chicago near north resident Ben Barron, captain; and last year's second place team, Old Orchard, with Bob Kys of Riverside, captain. The Old Orchard team, with pledges of $8,454, also had the largest team with 23 members.

In addition to keeping pace with friends, coworkers and family members making up a team, the top fundraising team wins the MS 150 Challenge Cup which remains in its possession until the following year.

Other team rewards include prizes awarded to the largest team, team captains who led a team of 10 or more, and teams with the most interesting team outfits (T-shirts, caps) and team names.

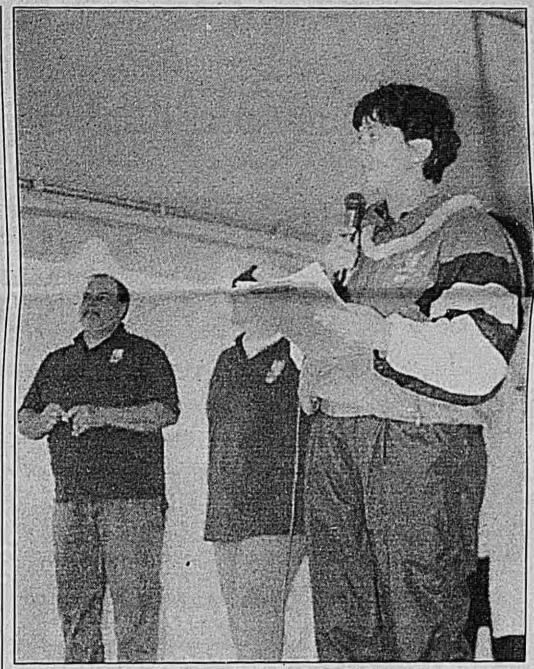

Of course, among the 1,200 expected cyclists in this year's ride, there will be many who ride on their own. Everyone will have the opportunity to make new friends on the tour of scenic Illinois countryside.

All participants in the ride depart between 7 to 9 a.m. from Benedictine Univ., Lisle, on Saturday, June 21, with Ottawa, Ill., the destination where overnight camping space is provided on the grounds of the high school. The tour of 75 miles each way includes refreshing snacks at rest stops along the way a well as lunch, dinner, breakfast and a welcomeback party upon the return to Lisle.

Riders pay a registration fee of $45 plus a minimum of $150 in pledges from sponsors.

The top fund raiser receives a getaway vacation for two sponsored by American Airlines. Other prizes awarded according to the level of funds raised include bicycle shorts and jerseys and certificates for merchandise at bike shops. As an extra inducement to enlist riders, the chapter is entering the names of all participants who have recruited a new rider in a drawing for a new bike

PADS needs sack lunches for homeless during summer

With the 15 PADS emergency overnight shelters in Lake County closed until Oct. 1, the staff and volunteers at Connection's PADS+ Resource Center hope people will not forget those who are homeless during the summer months. Each weekday they have a need for 50 bagged lunches for the homeless people they continue to serve.

PADS Program Manager Lynn Tracy reports that an average of over 50 individuals come to PADS+ at 214 S. Genesee St. in Waukegan each weekday seeking the outreach help they need to make meaningful changes in their lives.

Each person who comes for outreach help is given a sack lunch containing one or two lunch meat and cheese sandwiches, a piece of fruit, an individual snack pack of chips or pretzels, a wrapped dessert, and a small drink box or packet. These lunches are donated by church groups, organizations, clubs, individuals and families who put them together and deliver them to the Resource Center once a week, once a month, or even just once during the summer.

PADS is seeking more volunteer groups to help provide these lunches during the summer. Those interested are urged to call Bob Cheeks at 249-0737 for more information or to schedule a day to deliver lunches at PADS+.

Learning shouldn't end during summer vacation ear Dr. Singer, My child has learning problems and I'd like to keep him working somehow over the summer. We do not have him enrolled in any summer school or other educational program. Can you recommend some things we can do at home to keep his mind on top of things for next year? M.M.

Dear M.M.,

I have some suggestions, but realize that your child will probably not want to spend a minute of the summer doing them. In my mind, this really shouldn't be that much of a concern, because if these things are part of your rules, they need to be respected like any other rules. I say this only because I want you to be prepared for the "guff," you may

PARENT'S PLACE

I heard an interesting piece of information from one of my clients that I think is important for this type of thing. She told me that she heard another professional say that children lose about a month of school learning over the summer and that it takes an average of two months for them to get back up to speed in the fall. I cannot document the accuracy of this quote, but it does make sense to me. I am an advocate of summer home learning. Here are some suggestions that have worked well for my clients:

1. If you feel that your child's problem is something more than you can handle by yourself, or a problem that causes a lot of frustration for the child, have the child tested first to be sure that you are not mounting up more frustration. Once that is done and you have knowledge of what is o.k. to use over the summer, you can go ahead with the other suggestions. If you would like more information on this testing, you can call me.

2. If you have a computer, go out and get some structured (last year and next year grade) software packages in areas like math, reading, spelling, science, writing, etc. Set up a structured schedule during the summer.

For example, you may require two hours per day on a different program each day. You might have weekly requirements set up. You might make it goal oriented.

For example, if your child does all of the weekly requirements adequately, you might reward him on Friday with a Blockbuster Gift Certificate for Friday night. Incidentally, the reward is not a bribe, it is a goal meant for hard work and effort. If you have a problem with that type of thinking, you really need to reevaluate your thoughts about this. Motivation works for all of us.

If you do not have a computer, there are books available like this as well. Check at a place like Barnes and Noble or Border's Book stores.

3. If your child reads at an adequate level, you might put together a grade-appropriate book list for him or her to choose from.

Have the child choose a book for each two weeks of summer and require that one or two hours a day be spent reading. You might have the child do some sort of a small report, either written or oral for you.

4. Be sure that if you use the above suggestions, you don't go over three hours a day and try to split them up. For example, have the child read one hour in the morning and then have the child go outside to play or do something non-academic. Later on, have the child do an hour on the computer or with one of the subject books and then a break and then another hour. Teaching a child about breaks and not burning out is just as important as teaching the child about working all year around.

If you do find your child to. have problems in either the emotional, behavioral or learning area, give me a call and I can help you get those areas taken care of in a quick way. These suggestions are actually good for kids who are doing well in school and kids who aren't. It's good to keep those little brains frosty and alert over the summer so that when school begins, kids are ready to launch right back into it and they may pick more up from the beginning.

Murphy's offers Friday juice night

Juice Night at Murphy's Health Foods and Juice Bar in Libertyville is promising to offer a healthy alternative in beverages and snacks after a long work week.

Murphy's will be staying open until 7 p.m. so friends will have time to socialize and talk about the week that was. Jim Peterson, the "juiceman" at Murphy's, challenges one and all to not feel great after drinking a Watermelon Crawl or Carotene Craze.

The growth of the store and the increase in customers from many different areas, has prompted a proactive stand in the community along with a feeling of responsibility. This includes a commitment to helping people learn how to improve their own well-being, and the well-being of the planet.

"We recycle all that we can, we're giving away compost from our juice bar (just bring in your own containers), and we are one of the sponsors of the 5K run in Liberytville on June 28. Every month we hope to do something special for our customers," states Lori Murphy.

Murphy's is located at Church and Milwaukee in downtown Liberytville. Call 362-4664 for further information. —By Marlene Brown

We hear the statistics constantly - one in nine women will be diagnosed with breast cancer. One in ten men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer. Skin cancer will be diagnosed thousands of times this year alone.

But what we don't hear as much is what we can do to prevent cancer, detect it as early as possible, treat it effectively, and live long and well as a cancer survivor.

That is why the Cancer Resource Center was created. Located inside Gurnee Mills mall, the center houses a remarkable collection of cancer information - more than 200 books, medical journals and periodicals, health magazines, audio and video tapes on breast self examination, meditation, relaxation, and many other subjects. plus a computer connection to the world wide web to conduct research.

Our staff members understand the needs of people concerned about cancer. They listen, answer questions, and provide information about cancer that you may not be able to find on your own.

When you have questions or concerns about cancer, call the Cancer Resource Center, or visit during regular mall hours.

Silk Mandarin affords an elegant dining experience

Dining in Oriental elegance on some of the finest Mandarin food served in Lake County is an everyday occurrence at the Silk Mandarin, which now has two locations to tempt your palate for Chinese.

Silk Mandarin's newest location is at Round Lake Commons on Rollins Road in Round Lake Beach. The new restaurant has been patterned after the first Silk Mandarin in Vernon Hills, off of Rte. 60, at 4 East Phillip Rd., west of the Hawthorn Shopping Center.

From the moment guests of the Silk Mandarin enter the dining room, passing the intriguing aquarium filled with exotic tropical fish, the silk hangings and black lacquered elegance of the room indicate the Far Eastern Epicurean delights to follow.

Owner and head chef, Andy Tsai, gives every sumptuous entree his own special attention. The Round Lake Beach eatery, which opened June 11, will have limited seating and will focus on carryout and delivery.

Begin your dining with a zesty appetizer, including egg rolls, dumplings in hot pepper sauce, and won ton in hot pepper sauce. Then on to the tangy egg drop, won ton, or velvet corn and crabmeat soup before one of Chef Andy's popular entrees.

The names of some of the chef's favorite dishes, such as Happy Family, Twin Happiness, or velvet corn are as enticing as the delicious taste of the beef and shrimp in a special chef's sauce, or scallops and beef in a brown gravy sauce.

General Tso's chicken is Chef Andy's favorite dish made of delectable chunks of chicken sautéed n a spicy sauce and served in a pineapple shell. Other taste bud pleasers include Kung Pao chicken, almond chicken and sweet and pungent chicken.

For a variety combination, the gourmet menu features three delicacies—chicken, prawns and scallops, sautéed in a light sauce. Prawns are also served in a honey peach sauce, while on a different palate plain fiery Volcano Beef ignites your taste experience.

Hours for the Vernon Hills restaurant are 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday; on weekends until 11 p.m.; and on Sunday until 9 p.m. To dine in or carry out, call (847) 680-1760:

Antique Music Show returns to Union June 14, 15

They just can't seem to get enough of it.

In this day of CD's synthesizers and laser discs, you'd expect yesterday's technology to be worth little more than a memory. Not so says Randy Donley, a collectibles dealer and the organizer of the internationally known Antique Phonograph and Music show held in Union each June.

"The market for music and entertainment collectibles has never been hotter," said Donley. "There is a lot of interest and activity out there—and it's growing by leaps and bounds."

The thousands of buyers who travel to Union each year for the Antique Phonograph and Music Show held at Donley's Wild West Town are proof of just that. This year, more than 150 dealers will be on hand for the 23rd edition of the show June 14 to 15.

Show hours are Saturday, June 14 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, June 15 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is $7 per person, which includes admission to the Donley's antique phonograph museum and neighboring Wild West Town.

Serious collectors can purchase a $40 early bird ticket to gain access to the 10,000 square foot exhibition hall on Friday, June 13 to buy from the choicest of this year's rare and unusual items.

For the first time ever, the event will include an auction of highly collectible items, including antique phonographs, music boxes, Victrolas, nickelodeons, radios, juke boxes and slot machines. The auction will be held June 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn at I-90 and Route 31 in Elgin.

Admission to the auction is $10 per person, and includes an allyou-can-eat deluxe sandwich buf-

Widely considered to be the largest and longest-running show of its kind in the United States, the Antique Music Show has offered visitors from around the world an opportunity to buy and sell music technology and memorabilia since 1974. The show has evolved over the years, to reflect changes in the collectibles market, said Donley.

"The big trend today is towards invention and technology. Anything that has to do with early phonographs, telegraphs and televisions-especially patented models-is especially hot."

A growing interest in collecting records of all eras attracts new visitors to the show each year. In addition to rare 78 RPM records and cylinders, many dealers now also offer 33 RPM and 45 RPM recordsthe newest collectibles in the antique music industry.

"None of us like to think of the technology from our childhoods as antiques, but new technologies have made many of them become just that," said Donley. "Most younger kids have never even seen an album-much less a 45. But their parents have, and they come to this show to add to their personal collections."

Values have increased along with popular interest in music collectibles. Collectors favor the Union show for the many good buying opportunities it offers.

The auction especially will offer first-time collectors an opportunity to buy rare pieces at very competitive prices. "There are no minimum bids and no reserves," noted

Donley. "Every item on display will sell to the highest bidder."

The Donley family is no stranger to the music collectibles market. Their Union museum is home to a collection of rare phonographs and music boxes which has been judged the Charles Edison Fund to be 'the largest and finest Edisonia display in the United States.' The family is also active in promoting the history of music technology as an educational tool.

Items are being accepted for the auction on a consignment basis. Contact Donley at (815) 923-9000 for details or an appraisal.

Tickets for the show or preview will be available at the door, or may be ordered by calling (815) 923-

The phonograph museum and Wild West Town is open daily from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. through Labor Day. Donley's Old West Steak House and Buffet is located next door to the museum, offering lunch and dinner offered daily from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., and brunch on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

World's largest oven invades Chicago

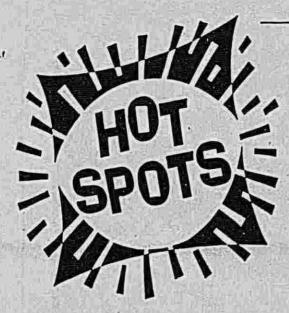

This summer, families throughout Chicago will toss aside their oven mitts and head for the sunny outdoors as they stand up for their right to a "No Oven Summer." On June 19 and 20, Kraft Foods will help consumers take one giant step toward a cool, carefree summer when the world's largest oven visits "hot spots" throughout the city.

A colossal, 20 foot high inflatable oven will appear at Thompson Center Plaza, Randhurst Shopping Center and Navy Pier with the "Kraft Ovenbusters," a team who will rally consumers to turn off their ovens and turn to Kraft for cool solutions to summertime meals. Anyone who pledges a "No Oven Summer" by signing the inflatable will receive a recipe leaflet and an immediate chance to win fun prizes.

According to a recent National Eating Trends study, Americans take an entirely new approach to cooking when the temperature rises. In fact, the average number of meals prepared in the oven during summer months—June through August-decreases by 25 percent compared to the rest of the year, while the number of meals prepared on the grill increase 160 percent.

"Our research tells us most consumers don't want to use their ovens during the summer because it heats up their homes and keeps them from enjoying the activities that make summer special," says Denise Henderson, Kraft Creative Kitchens.

The giant oven will first appear in Chicago at Thompson Center Plaza on Thursday, June 19, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. That afternoon, consumers can spot the oven at Randhurst Shopping Center from 4 until 6 p.m. On Friday, June 20, the oven will visit Navy Pier from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

To benefit the home buyer, architectural standards are enforced at Conway Farms of Lake Forest guaranteeing consistent character, quality and harmony within the community. Each home is its own little jewel box. Below, in keeping

Conway Farms of Lake Forest is 'Built to the Nines'

By ROSELLE LOVE Special Sections Editor

urning onto the drive of Conway Farms of Lake Forest, visitors can immediately see why this development is the winner of the "Gold Key Award for Best Over-All Community" and
"Best Upscale Community."

The 400-plus acres were acquired by the Stuart, Hart and Smith families in the 1950s. Together they shared a vision to build a community around a golf course. In 1988 Conway Farms was annexed to Lake Forest and their vision began to unfold.

The award winning community, with homesites ranging from 1/2 to 1.5-acres, continues the legacy of Lake Forest architecture and design. Tom Fazio designed the centerpiece of the development—Conway Farms Golf Course.

The custom-built homes of Conway Farms have kept the natural beauty of the land with each home having a view of the lakes, fairways and open space.

"Conway Farms is a rich, diverse community," states Alma Fisher, director of sales and marketing. "It is a very attractive way to make Lake Forest your home."

The newest development of Conway Farms is the Meadows. "Twenty-six of the 33
lots are already sold," said Alexander Stuart, president of Conway Farms. "Many families have purchased in the Meadows. It offers easy access to the community pool and tennis courts. Plans are also in the works to build a trail for bicycling and leisurely walks to the recreation center."

Each homeowner of Conway Farms is a member of the homeowners association. Golf outings, pool parties, even a carry out service from the golf club are available to each neighbor.

"With Phase I of Conway Farms nearly completed, through zoning flexibility, plans are already underway to build on the southeast lots in the fall. When Conway Farms is complete, there will be 300 units here," states Stuart.

Home styles of Conway Farms include luxurious townhomes as well as one-of-akind estates. A sample of Conway Farms is this home built by Gene Martin of Martin Design Group of Lake Forest.

As guests enter the gallery, this home explodes your visual senses! The shadows play-off the lights of this barrel ceiling gallery entrance. The massive white trellis ceiling, with eyebrow windows, an original design of the builder, captures you into this country English setting of the great room.

Following the herringbone design of the Australian cypress floors guests will be led into the library which boasts a rich green wall covering, beautifully wood wainscoting and country fireplace. A perfect room to hide away and enjoy a good book.

The master suite offers yet another type of ceiling. The tray ceiling gives the room height and volume. The Plantation shutters were a must for the homeowner, adding to the comfort and peacefulness of the suite.

The master suite bath offers an elegant sunken tub, private shower and separate water closet. Added to the tile floor of the bath is raw marble. The marble is dried and distressed to give it a rough appearance, but it is easy to care for, boasts the homeowner.

Entering the kitchen designed by DE Giulio Kitchen Design, Inc. of Wilmette, no one would dare complain about any meal or snack being prepared in here. The country English kitchen offers commercial grade appliances to prepare mouth-watering entrées. A lovely country view is seen from each window, and a private morning patio is a perfect place for a weekend breakfast.

For a more formal dinner party, the dining room brings together antiques, country and modern furnishings to please every

Decorating Der

The pine, mighty, different and long lived

Of all the needle-type evergreens, pines seem to show the greatest diversity of habitat. distribution and ornamental characteristics. Most are large trees, however, several species are dwarfish or shruby and over their native. range may vary from dense, compact; slow growing types (three-foot) to large trees (75feet). The trees species and cultivars of pine are used extensively in large scale landscape plantings such as parks, golf courses, estates, cemeteries, shopping centers and public buildings. If used on smaller residential sites, care should be taken in the design to plant single specimen plants instead of large mass groupings because of the overpowering effect. Remember the one- to six-foot Austrian Pine will one day reach 30-feet high by 25- to 30-feet in width.

Many pines offer unique shape, coloring and bark texture as they age and stand out if planted alone or in small grouping in the residential setting. The Swiss Stone Pine, Limber Pine and Austrian Pine will do well on a site that is open, windy and well drained. Many times these plants are used on berms to help block noise and roadways. The Scotch pine also is planted on berms, however, we feel this pine is best suited as a single, large specimen plant to be viewed daily in your garden. As this plant ages it becomes open and rounded showing an orange exfoliating bark. A very artistic accent to ones garden. Generally the larger, specimen plants are easily moved and provide this effect immediately.

The Pinus strobus, Eastern White Pine should not be planted on a berm where heavy winds tend to thin this plant out. This plant is beautiful planted closer to the home, protected form high winds and can tolerate some

The White Pine looks stunning when planted under the canopy of large trees in a random fashion to emulate a forested look. Will not tolerate wet soils for very long periods of time. When purchasing any pine, settle only for a specimen plant. A park grade or No. 2 pine never looks good in a residential setting and will never become a specimen plant.

Some unique pines showing contorted and weeping characteristics are: Pinus contorta "Spaan's Dwarf" a natural bonsai with short, green needles. The Pinus banksiana "Uncle Fogy" is a bizarre weeping selection from Minnesota. The Pinus strobus "Contorta" is another pine showing twisted needles, trunk and branches. The Pinus strobus "Pendula" weeps to the ground with age and the "Umbraculifera" develops a umbrella habit with age. This list goes on and on and many of these are available and grown in our area. For foundation plantings or as an accent in a private garden, many dwarf varieties can and should be used. The Pinus mugo "ENCI" is a compact, round form and is a nice container plant or can be used in a small space in the garden. For a dense, dwarf mugo the Pinus mugo "Oregon Jade" is available and an excellent rock garden mugo is the Pinus mug "Paul's Dwarf."

Pines have colors that range from bluegrey to silver-blue to powder-blue and even a yellow-green band on needles. Shapes are fro prostrate to contorted to weeping to tightly compacted to open conical to bonsai. With these shapes and colors the pine makes a great addition to any ones garden.

Ailing lawns might need new start

As nature runs its course, many lawns become thin, ugly and choked with weeds. When routine maintenance no longer provides a healthy, good-looking lawn, it might be time for a fresh start.

Consider the benefits:

 A healthy lawn that stands up to wear and has greater aesthetic value to the home-

· Homes with great-looking lawns sell for more. This begins with what Realtors call "curb appeal." Prospective buyers will stop for a look at a home with a good lawn, while sickly, patchy grass prompts buyers to drive on to the next home on the market.

 The cost of lawn renovations is considered home maintenance and in many cases might be a tax advantage when the home is sold.

A renovation begins by determining what's ailing the grass. The possibilities are many and common.

A so-called "hard pan," a layer of compressed soil too solid to allow proper root growth, could be the culprit. Or the soil might have become too acidic or too alkaline over time. An irrigation problem might be to blame, or too much shade. Perhaps the wrong type of grass for the location was planted in the first place, or small but destructive bugs could be waging a turf was on Finding the source of the lawn problem doesn't have to be costly. Soil samples and a clump of grass can be taken to the turf specialist at the nearest Cooperative Extension Service office. The soil will be tested to determine what additives, if any, need to be spread on the lawn to improve its condition.

A professional contractor can spot hidden problems and suggest remedies. If a renovation is needed, the contractor can remove existing grass and weeds by scraping or cutting away the vegetation. After a herbicide is used, the contractor can seed grass through the dead lawn or easily remove it to get to bare ground. Also ask about the advantages and disadvantage of seeding or using sod, and about the company's policy on return visits for touch-up work.

Get pools ready for the summer season

Several steps should be taken at the beand to make sure your pool, spa or hot tub has "balanced" water and is ready for your family's enjoyment.

 Pool or spa must be thoroughly cleaned before filling with water. Vacuum dirt and wipe away oils and grime with specified cleaners. On acrylic, vinyl and fiber glass, follow the manufacturer's specifications for cleaning methods and agents.

2. To fill a spa or hot tub, cover hose-end with a clean towel. This prevents damage to the surface and filters out dirt/residue before entering the spa/hot tub.

Check the mineral balance. Imbalanced water is difficult to sanitize, wastes chemicals and requires more manual cleaning efforts. Some dealers offer a mineral test as a special service to their customers. Make sure that they also test for water hardness at the same time. You want to achieve balanced water at the start of each season.

One option available is to take a quart of pool/spa water into a dealer for testing; make sure the water has been filtered for at least three hours. Take the sample away from water inlets or return lines, and at least 20 inches below the surface. Once tested, the dealer can recommend specific chemicals and combinations to you.

4. Inspect the system daily. Start with the first stage of the system, probably the skimmer. Clean the skimmer of leaves and debris before use.

Clean the lint trap, following the manufacturer's instructions. Some lint traps need to be flushed.

6. Inspect the filter and record the initial pressure on the gauge. When the pressure drops six or more p.s.i., the filter may need to be cleaned or replaced. Weekly backwashing during heavy use is considered normal. Note: The filter system should be serviced annually.

Testing, adjusting water

The pH level is the acid-alkaline balance of water. Look at the water to determine if there is high or low pH balances; white cloudy or murky, for example.

Measure the pH level with your test kit. Make sure the filter has run at least three hours before testing, and before you add any chemicals.

The pH should fall between 7.0 and 7.7; below it is too acidic, above is too alkaline. Make no adjustments yet.

Measure the amount of free chlorine. This is measured in "ppm," parts per million. The range of free chlorine is between 1.0 and 1.5 ppm. You should not use a pool/spa when the free chlorine is 2.5 ppm or greater (free chlorine is the amount of chlorine ready to attack bacteria).

Adjust the chlorine and/or pH levels by adding the needed chemicals to the water as per your testing kit's instructions. Never add water to acids; pour them into the water.

Retest the pH balance and free chlorine levels after the water is filtered one hour or longer. Never allow swimmers into a pool/spa that has free chlorine over 2.5 ppm, or a pH below 7.0 or above 8.0 for safety's

Check the alkalinity of the water every other test cycle, or if wide fluctuations of pH balances are recorded. This is the water's ability to maintain the pH balance; when the alkalinity is about 120 ppm, or according to directions.

Next check the stabilization level for outdoor pools/spas when you check the alkaline level. Sunlight causes chlorine to escape water, and cyanurates stabilize it with cyanuric acid.

When cyanurates are between 25 to 90 ppm, free chlorine between 1.0 to 1.5 ppm, pH between 7.0 and 7.7 and alkalinity is about 120 ppm, your pool/spa water is considered to be balanced, that is, the best combination of chemicals for clean and sparkling water.

Filtering cycles

Filtering efficiency depends on continuous operation measured in terms of water turnover.

The optimum daily turnover rate is three times for pools and six times for spas. Do not stretch cycles-from 8 to 12 hours, for example.

Optimum turnover removes up to 95 percent of suspended contaminants. The more you remove by filtering, the less cleaning and chemicals are needed.

Pumps, heaters

Inspect daily for any signs of oil or water, indicating a broken seal. Also listen for any unusual noises that indicate a need for ser-

Check the strainer and lint trap to the pump. Note: Turn off pump before removing Clean the strainer and trap, if needed. Lubricate gaskets and seals with the recommended lubricants to insure a good seal. Refill the pump with water before starting.

Vacuum and clean the pool and deck every third day. This removes dirt that can clog skimmers and filters, which are designed to remove the smaller particles from the wa-

Monitor the water flow to heaters. Log daily the flow meters, and open the bleeder valves weekly to remove line residue. Some heaters require the removal of the flow line in order to clean the line. Refer to the directions before doing so.

Check periodically the working level of the thermostat and/or pressure switch. Both can and will eventually fail. Refer to your specifications on how to check and adjust

Hose off solar panels weekly to insure that enough sunlight penetrates the panels. Check for leaks and needed repairs when washing.

Don't buy it

I knew I'd raise the ire of some teacher. To the teacher who says he or she deserves the money because of their advanced degrees and long hours, it's just as I suspected. They think they're better than the people they work for. Since you did ask, I do have a bachelor's degree. I guess I'm just one of those stupid college graduates who chose to stay home for six years until her child was able to go to school. So now I'm starting over at the bottom. I'd get a master's degree if the taxpayers would pay for it, I can't afford it.

Just so you know, I worked as a substitute teacher for 'a year. The teacher's hours that I was replacing were 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 with an hour off for lunch and two study periods in which to grade papers. I don't buy your 60 hours a week story. You may deserve the money you get, but you don't deserve four months vacation per year and neither do the kids.

Grayslake

Trust is the issue

In response to the caller who stated that Lt. Kelly Flinn should not be discharged for adultery because it goes on all over, the military has to hold its officers to a higher standard than other professions because officers must have the respect and trust of their subordinates to maintain discipline in a combat environment. I ask that person, would you trust the judgment of a morally bankrupt officer to lead your son or daughter into combat? People always seem to lose sight of the fact that the military isn't a business and soldiers die.

Libertyville

Main Street, USA

The county wants to make Clinton a major truck route, a four-laner right up into Lake Zurich. Actually, Clinton ends at McHenry. What happened to Route 53 going through Long Grove? I guess they're dumping the traffic on us and Route 53 isn't what it's supposed to be. Call your representatives to tell them what you think about all this big roads going through Lake Zurich, and not the surrounding towns.

Use your heads

I just want to say that I think the bus drivers in Grayslake shouldn't have to walk out. I can understand where they're coming from but there's no reason to take it out on us kids. We have no power over what happens to their business. I don't see the use in making kids miserable over something that none of us can change. I feel sorry for them, but I think they should have used their heads a little

Tear down playsets
I have a suggestion for those people who are trying to sell their homes with huge playsets in the backyard. Tear them down. This only appeals to a small age group. You don't want to discriminate against certain age groups, but appeal to all age groups. Don't make your whole backyard a play set, they'll only use it for a few years. You're only narrowing your prospects.

Teach kids safety

I live in a subdivision in Mundelein where there's many families with small children. I find it upsetting that these children are left unattended while outside. They run around in the streets without looking for oncoming cars. There is no way children will learn how to play safely unless there's someone there to teach and supervise. Parents, you chose to have children, now be responsible and teach them safety.

Might've been you

Dear "Never again," thank you very much for standing up and doing the right thing. Please keep it up. All I can say to the drunk who's driving around, it might have been your life that was saved. If your father, who works for the village, stands up for you instead of for what's right, he ought to be kicked out of office. By society bending over and allowing people to be jerks is causing itself to fall apart. Thanks once again for standing up and doing the right thing! There's plenty of us out here who applaud you! .

Round Lake Beach

Feeding at the trough

The Grayslake park district board of commissioners held a "Facts to the Media for Information Only" not for publication business meeting at the Illinois Beach State Park, Illinois Beach Resort on June 6 & 7. It included cocktails, dinner, and a $110 a night room, all in order to bond together. This was orchestrated by the Clean Sweep New Park Five. It sounds more like a clean sweep of the park district tax coffers to me.

Grayslake

I scream, you scream... Will it take a tragedy in order for the Round Lake Beach governing body to outlaw the stupid ice cream trucks going up and down the streets? On more than one occasion, children have run in front, behind and to the side of me, chasing these trucks down. Yesterday, I was at a stop sign and a kid literally hit the back of my car, running into it, in order to chase a truck that was five houses down. I think the minuses far outweigh the pluses in this. I hope they outlaw this before something serious happens. Round Lale Beach

What nerve

Dr. Dam, I've just been wondering how someone in your position has the nerve to send out a letter against pay increases for teachers, but feel the executive director in charge of our waterways is worth $75,000. In your eyes, our children aren't worth that. Using your chart, exactly how much an hour does Kabbes make considering boating season in a good year is 5-6 months long? Also, I'd like to know how someone gets a job paying $40,000 a year working for the waterway, hits a boat drunk on duty, has been arrested for DUI, and when he hits the boat, has six people on board but claims he was working. Plus he owns another business. Using your chart, how much is his hourly wage?

Don't sweep it under

We suggest letting the people of the Chain O' Lakes area, and Lake County be more informed on this boating accident at Lake Marie on May 31.

No place to live
When will Fox Lake be a place to live? No good food stores, nothing for the kids, like Round Lake and McHenry. There's only cars and taverns here.

Wake up, Fox Lake. It's been 60 years and nothing has been done.

Don't be fooled

Don't be fooled by the fools. Have you seen the sign about Grayslake IGAP scores? The sign is the truth. IGAP, or Illinois Goal Assessment Programs, is a preeminent test used throughout the state to measure performance levels of various school districts. IGAP is used by developers to promote desirable areas to potential home buyers. Our town finished poorly, to say the least. What is that doing to our property values? Our taxes earmarked for education are among the state's highest. Our registration fees are the county's highest. But our IGAP scores are among the lowest. Congratulations, Mundelein, you creamed us in every category and grade level. Our children are not dumb and our teachers are not bad. The fools running our self-serving administration have dug a rut for our children so deep that it will take years to dig out of it. Why are our scores so low, Doc Hoch? Where's the money for the kids, Orv? People of Grayslake, wake up to the stench and don't be fooled by the fools. Grayslake

The old-fashioned way

This is in response to "Out of touch." Yay, yahoo, you said it right. Many teachers put in 50-60 hours a week with no overtime pay. What gets me is the complaining person with the $22,000 salary. "Out of touch" hit the nail on the head. Teachers have bachelors degrees and many have master's degrees. We get raises with experience and we deserve them. Teachers earn their pay with hard work and continual studying.

Grayslake,

Let's swim indoors

Grayslake residents, we live in Lake County, we do not need an outdoor pool. We need an indoor pool. We can already swim in the lakes two months out of the year. We don't need to spend millions for a pool. We need an indoor pool, not an outdoor pool. Let's use our heads,

Don't use fluid

Summer's here and people will be using their barbecues outside. If you have a grill and you're charcoal grilling, please don't use lighter fluid. You can use an electric starter, charcoal without lighter fluid in it, etc. This isn't good for you to eat and it's not good for the ozone layer. So, think before you buy that lighter fluid and buy an electric starter for your grill, it's a lot healthier.

Thanks again!

I'd like to thank Sgt. Rich Becmer of the Fox Lake Police Department, for bringing DARE to the Gavin School. I'd also like to thank Fox Lake Mayor Jim Pappas for coming and congratulating our students on a job well done, even though none of the people in the audience live in Fox Lake. Thank you again. DARE is a great program!

Service going down

I'm calling to agree with "Change the system" about Lakeland Newspapers' delivery service. The same company also delivers the Market Journal and other throw-away type mail. This adds to the clutter because some people don't want it and don't pick it up. Since Lakeland has changed to this delivery company, I haven't received my paper two weeks in a row yet. I think Lakeland , should check into the service level their customers are receiving.

Mundelein

Antioch tarpits

I'm commenting about the proposed new wetland area in Antioch by Claude LeMere. Wow, another great idea from the fertile mind of Claude LeMere. Spending taxpayer money on another mosquito infested weed and algae pit in an effort to show our children how it was in Antioch 80 years ago. Our children don't care about how things are now, why would they care about how things were 80 years ago? Come on, LeMere, take care of the wetlands we have now. Lake Antioch showcased on the main highway through town is a disgrace. Peterson Park, the newly established recreational area for our children, is just as bad. I wonder what the name of this area would be, LeMere's Armpit? Antioch's version of the LaBrea Tarpits? I live in Antioch and I'm disgusted with all the bureaucrats around here.

Hello, and welcome to 'Our Town' is all about your town, friends and neighbors and, possibly, you may glimpse your own name in this column from time to time.

As part of the new design here at Lakeland Newspapers, I will be writing a weekly column, To start off the first week I thought I should introduce myself.

I started my career with Lakeland Newspapers in October of 1995 and began covering Wadsworth in September of 1996, when the "Wadsworth News" was

I came to Lake County with my family, who relocated here from Tennessee. I've been somewhat of a nomad in the last 10 years or so. Even here in Lake County, I've lived in Lake Bluff and Gurnee, before my recent move to the Uncoln Park neighborhood in Chicago. My friends and relatives claim they no longer write my name in ink in their address

I spent the first few years of my life in Kaneohe, Oahu, Hawaii, then, unfortunately may I add parents decided to return to Midwest roots and moved

OUR TOWN

Elizabeth Eaken

For those of you not familiar with Kankakee, most people remember it as the place they stop for gas on their way to Champaign. When I was in high school my family moved down south to Chattanooga, Tenn. I attended Notre Dame High School there, which was strategically located directly across the street from an all boys school, which happened to be the alma mater of Ted Turner, I suppose everyone knows where we spent our time after

I decided not to stick it out down there and returned to Illinois, where I finished high school in my hometown.

I graduated from Bishop McNamara High School In Kankakee, and Columbia College as a public relations major, but found my way into the journalism program. My affinity for writing was sparked by the fact that I always had my nose buried in a book as a kid.

Covering Wadsworth brings back memories for me of my own family. My grandpa, Eaken, was a farmer in Iroquois County and the town my grandparents lived in was a little country hamlet similar to Wadsworth, although it was definitely in a more remote Often, I'm reminded of my hometown when talking with residents of the area, who reminisce about the way things used to be and where they're heading. Everyone in Newport Township seems to know every one else, either as distant relatives, neighbors, or former classmates.

Crusade nears realization

Mom's efforts for CPR legislation passes House, Senate to vote in fall veto session

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Legislative support continues for one Lake County resident's crusade to enhance cardiopulmonary resuscitation education in schools.

The legislation has cleared the Illinois House of Representatives by a 95-20-0 margin and is now in the third reading before the Illinois State Senate. Senators are expected to vote on a refined version of the bill in the fall veto session. The Illinois House Bill received the support of State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville).

"It is in its final hurdles. We will be meeting with the Illinois Board of Education and the Illinois School Assn. to discuss appropriate measures and make the legislation ready for implementation," Carol Spizzirri, founder of Save-A-Life Foundation, Spizzirri said through negotiations this summer and fall the bill will be stronger when it reaches Gov. James Edgar's desk for his signature.

"I support it. It is important to know more so we can save lives. I commend her efforts," State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), said.

According to the House Bill, the curriculum for CPR education would be through grade eight.

The State Board of Education would contract with entities such as Save-A-Life Foundation to provided basic first aid and CPR classes. "The entities and organizations

Clergy: Archbishop's 'universal views' will aid him in leading Catholics

By JEANETTE TELLER Correspondent

Three local Roman Catholic clergy agree Archbishop Francis George's philosophical views will him meet his greatest challenges to be as head of the Chicago Archdio-

Father John Finnegan of St. Mary of Vernon, Indian Creek, said while he "doesn't want to even suggest the direction he (Archbishop Francis George) should go in." He was very optimistic in pointing out that George has two qualities he "brings to Lake County and the Chicago area that no other in his position has had." The first is that he is a native to the area, having grown up in Chicago. The second, according to Finnegan, is George's sense of the "church universal."

George "has been in mission countries, oceanic, everywhere," said Finnegan. "These experiences and knowledge will help him shape his agenda and lead us in new directions." Finnegan, said, "He knows the church as a whole."

Father Raymond Skriba, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Round Lake, stated clearly that his opinion of where George might lead would be based on a lot of guessing and judgments based on George's history. While Skriba knew Cardinal Bernadin, he said he has no direct knowledge of George.

"This is a different man, "Skriba said. "He does have a different approach to the church's life and ministry and problems."

George "is a philosopher," said Skriba, "and that is what we need." Skriba continued, "Many in the church beginning with the laity, and the clergy, and the hierarchy do not see the relevance of philosophy."

Skriba expressed disappointment that philosophy is not emphasized in the training of clergy as much as it was previously. He said philosophy and religion have absolutes. He added, "Modern philosophy is not given to absolutes."

Skriba believes that the views which influence George's theology will also influence the decisions and the greatest challenge facing George

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Train jumping ends in death

Lake Villa—Three Downers Grove teens jumped on a Wisconsin Central freight car in Bedford Park and one of them is dead after his ill-fated attempt at jumping off a moving train.

Brent W. Cobb, 18, was pronounced dead at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge at 12:15 p.m., June 10, about six hours after the incident. Emergency surgery was unable to correct the severe head trauma.

Cobb, along with Dennis Radtke and an unidentified 17year-old male, jumped on a train at about 4 a.m.. They became concerned they were heading too far from home and decided to jump off the train in the 700 block of Milwaukee Avenue, according to Lt. Roger Visconti of Lake Villa Police Department.

Radtke suffered only a minor arm injuries while the 17year-old was uninjured. Lake Villa police will continue their investigation and possibly pursue charges.

House shot at, fire started

Round Lake Beach—No one was injured after about 10 bullets were fired at a house on the 1400 block of Melrose Drive.

It is believed accelerants were used to start a fire which went from a school van to the garage and a school bus. Round Lake Fire Protection District firefighters were able to extinguish the blaze.

According to police reports, the incident may be a response to an altercation in Ingleside on June 5. The size of the bullet holes is leading police to believe the weapon fired was a shotgun.

Mundelein may rebate sales tax

Mundelein—Mundelein village trustees may eventually vote to rebate sales tax revenue and still come out financially ahead with a proposal now working its way towards public comment and discussion.

Public hearings on a proposed tax sharing agreement with Driver's Mart of Chicagoland, may be established at the June 16 Village Board meeting. Tentative dates for the hearings are July 7 and July 14. A legal notice will be published.

Village officials are proposing to forgo an estimated $120,000 of annual sales revenue from the proposed Driver's Mart of Chicagoland business for 10 years, or until $1.2 million has been shared, whichever comes first. This arrangement, village officials believe, will help Driver's Mart move into the empty Kmart facility on Route 60 at Route 45 to become a successful business.

Available at the public hearing on the tax sharing proposal will be the Business Improvement District plan, the development agreement, and resolutions the Village Board will adopt or reject.

Old Mill Creek—Old Mill Creek is fed up with being the dumping ground for those who are trying to escape disposal charges.

The village has experienced a rash of people depositing items from old refrigerators, to piles of mail alongside its country roads. The village them becomes responsible for fees to dispose of items such as old refrigerators that contain freon. In an effort to crack down on offenders they are considering a fine of $1,000 for any person caught dumping in the village limit to cover their cleanup and disposal charges.

Butcher knife wielded at grocery

Grayslake—A Wildwood man pulled a 12 inch butcher knife on the manager of the Grayslake Piggly Wiggly grocery store and a Grayslake police officer, landing himself in the St. Therese psychiatric ward, June 10.

Efrem Habte Gebreselassie 21, of 33418 Park Street, was confronted by employees of the Grayslake grocery store upon reportedly shoplifting a package of razor blades. He subsequently pulled out a 12 inch butcher knife and threatened to stab a male employee. When Grayslake Sergeant Tom Woodruff arrived, Gebreselassie had cornered the store manager in the office and pulled the knife out from behind his leg when the sergeant entered the room. He then made a slashing motion towards the officer.

He was charged with one count of retail theft and two counts of aggravated assault before being transported to St. Therese on the advice of his psychiatric physician. Gebreselassie has a June 30 court date.

Assessor's pay increased

Gurnee—Newly-elected township officials and audience members are demanding accountability from the Warren Township Assessor's Office.

While other elected officials who won office in the most sweeping turnover of Warren Township office holders in 36 years, took over April 1, assessor Carol Stried will not assume her position until Jan. 1, due to different state statutes. That is where the debate begins.

Township trustees voted unanimously to grant Stried a 4 percent pay hike from the pay rate set by the previous board.

Pay raises need to be voted 180 days before a term begins.

"She will also be streamlining the office," newly elected Supv. Sue Simpson said.

Trustees and observers were upset that three full-time staff members were being asked to do the job of seven. Assessor Joe Dada is technically still in office, although Simpson said his appearances are infrequent for "10 to 15 minutes a day."

The increase will bring Stried's pay up to $45,000 a year in 1998. The next year, it will be $46,800, the next $46,872 and the Trustees said Warren's pay would then be about the average among Lake County assessors.

Catchin' the big one

Prayer answered, bike won

Round Lake Heights— Karen Sandy debated whether or not she should go to church Sunday June 8 and felt guilty when she opted to skip church and attend the "Take a Kid Fishing" derby at Round Lake. Being a single mother with three girls, one of whom needed a new bike which she couldn't afford Karen opted to go to the derby after hearing that the sponsors, Round Lake Police Lodge 97 and the Round Lake Fire Fighter's Association were giving away four bicycles, to children who caught the biggest fish in certain categories.

Karen's middle daughter, Beth Sandy, had her bike stolen a year ago. Living on a tight budget with limited income, Karen couldn't afford to buy her 10-year-old a new bike. They'd searched diligently at garage sales to no avail.

Her friends at church told her to pray about Beth getting a bike, but she didn't know how it could be done, until last week.

Although Beth had never fished before, Karen thought she'd bring her to the fishing contest anyway. She was reminded of a Bible passage in the first part of Luke 5, where Jesus told Simon Peter and his friends where to cast their nets and they caught such a large number of fish their nets began to break. If God could help catch fish Karen thought, maybe he could help now too, if she believed in miracles.

After a few casts at the lake, Beth caught her first fish ever. It was small, but they held onto it so it could be measured. Suddenly, the fish nipped her sister Sarah's hand and she dropped it into the water. Undaunted, Beth kept casting. Around 9:30 a.m., Beth saw her fishing line tighten and reeled in a beautiful 7-1/4" perch the largest in her category. For catching the biggest fish in her age category, Beth won a shiny Huffy Leading Edge girl's 10-speed mountain bike.

Karen said this next Sunday, she and her girls would be in church thanking God for answered prayers and thanking him that he still does fish and miracles.

Gundelach gets restricted duty

Fox Lake—Following defeat of a motion to suspend its recently-appointed Dredging-Excavation Field Manager, the Board of the Fox Waterway Agency has instead elected to put Roy Gundelach on restricted duty, pending his hearing on a charge of operating a boat under the influence of alcohol.

Although stronger measures of suspension were favored by Waterway Director James McKinley and Chairman Dr. William Dam, other board members felt that step would be premature before Gundelach makes his first appearance in court, July 3.

In a board motion which passed 5-1, Gundelach was temporarily prohibited, pending a licensing hearing and on penalty of immediate dismissal, from operating any watercraft, either privately or during agency business, and was directed to seek an evaluation for possible substance abuse.

Gundelach was charged with OUI as a result of an 11 p.m., May 31, collision between a boat he was operating and one at anchor in Lake Marie. The operator of the second craft, Jeffrey Vincent of Chicago, stands charged with failure to display an anchor light.

Out to Supper begins next week

Libertyville — MainStreet Libertyville, in conjunction with the Libertyville Village Band, will offer families a chance to get together to enjoy a meal, and good music, as the first night of the Out to Supper series is set to begin Thursday, June 19.

Promotion committee co-chair Scott Adams said the idea steinmed from the success of the Out to Lunch program, and to showcase the village band.

Metra takes test run on EJ&E

Lake Zurich—Metra conducted a test run June 8 on its proposed commuter line on the Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railroad, making a stop at the village depot to snap some photographs and grab some lunch.

The special train was running primarily to photograph the EJ&E route from Joliet to Waukegan as part of a study scheduled to be completed this fall, said Frank Malone, Metra spokesman.

The test run was part of a study being conducted to determine whether or not there should be another commuter line developed and if Metra should move ahead or not, Malone said. The study is expected to be completed by this fall.

Dist. 118 paves way for Bulls

Wauconda—The Chicago Bulls are not the only team from Illinois that took a trip to Salt Lake City, Utah. Members of the Regular Education Initiative team of Cotton Creek School paved the way.

Principal James Schopp led a small contingent of teachers to the Beehive State this spring, where the Wauconda Unit District 118's REI program received accolades from their educational peers at the National Conference of Exceptional Children.

At the conference, the group handed out 150 copies of its REI plan to interested educators, and sent out 50 more upon their return home, Schopp said.

"It was very validating for us in that we find here in Wauconda we are doing great things," he said.

'Dr. Seuss Bandit' strikes again

Vernon Hills — A bandit with a penchant for wearing a stovepipe hat, similar to the hat worn by the "Cat in the Hat" in Dr. Seuss' books, robbed his second bank in one week after holding up the Vernon Hills Citibank, at 1 p.m., Saturday, June 7.

FBI officials said the "Dr. Seuss Bandit," as he has been dubbed, is also suspected in the robbery of the Harris Trust Bank in Wilmette on Thursday, June 5.

Antioch online June 20

Antioch—Working with Innovative Solutions in Wadsworth, Illinois, the Antioch Village Board has completed its final review of a web page format, content, and site design. Webmaster Frank W. Burke, of Innovative Solutions, said after the village review process, "The official live date is June 20." The address is http://www.antioch-il.org.

The village board unanimously accepted the proposal for the web page creation and its format. The site will include hyperlinks to the Antioch Public Library District, Antioch Upper Grade School, Antioch Community High School, The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Lake County, and the College of Lake County. Others may be added in the future.

Library may select architect

Mundelein— Fremont Public Library District
Trustees have selected an architectural firm to help them with the design of a new facility.

The trustees are now talking with the selected firm to come to agreement on a contract for services that will initially include assistance with site selection and analysis for a new facility.

Results of these negotiations, if successful, are expected to be announced at the June 19 meeting of the library

The architectural firm will help trustees design a new building. Library trustees have not decided on a location for a new facility. However, the library owns property on Midlothian Road next to Mechanics Grove School.

Professional library standards suggest that a 45,000 square foot library would be appropriate for the size of Mundelein's existing population. A new library would be built to serve the future needs of the district, officials said phalanx of liberal politicians, education establishment apologists and handwringing press pundits have it all wrong about correcting financial shortcomings of Illinois public schools. Enact necessary reforms first; then deal with funding inequities. The voting public and conservative stalwarts in Republican legislative ranks see through the current process, an insult to intelligent taxpayers. Without putting reforms in place first, the public knows it's the same old money toss game—throwing dollars at the schools without getting anything in return. Editorial writers for daily newspapers, in particular, just don't seem to understand that.

Voters tired of money toss

What to do seems pretty clear: provide school-choice vouchers, open the door wider for charter schools, eliminate tenure abuses and implement grade-level testing for measurable achievement, especially in math and verbal comprehension.

With the state's robust economy, money is available for education. An additional $330 million was provided this session. A similar sum enacted next session would cover an acknowledged shortfall—without a tax increase. The daily press has been strangely silent on the state's overall economic health, preferring to dwell on the preceived heartless attitude toward children of GOP leaders in the General Assembly. That's hooey!

What about doing the work first, then get the pay? Logical and sensible. We think taxpayers would like that.

Des Plaines River faces exiting future

fter more than a century of abuse and neglect, the Des Plaines River is getting the respect and attention befitting an ecological and environmental treasure. Hope that the Des Plaines can become an object of natural beauty instead of defiled as a constant flood threat to modern urban society lies in the future of a fledgling organization, the Des Plaines River Ecosystem Partnership, a consortium of public and private agencies involving federal, state and county agencies in both Wisconsin, location of the headwaters of the historic river, and Illinois, where the meandering, slow moving river at times often is viewed in menacing terms.

Leadership for what can become a golden era for the Des Plaines is being provided by the Liberty Prairie Foundation, a Lake County conservation organization. Executive Director Michael Sands describes the work of the partnership as "developing a common vision" for directing development in the watershed, covering 2,000 miles and touching most of Lake County's most populous areas.

Ironically, the idea for the partnership grew out of questioning and in some case, outright opposition, to the Army Corps of Engineers $80 million plan for flood control. Friends of the Des Plaines feel there has to be a better way to deal with the sometimes rampaging Des Plaines other than the Army plan of essentially letting flood level waters "flush" through the county with damage mitigated by dikes, berms and detention basins.

The partnership was sparked into existence by a $95,000 grant from the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources' Conservation 2000 program. Supporting the search for alternatives, program director Brian Anderson stated that the Des Plaines watershed is so heavily developed that there are limited options to coping with flooding.

Among the early participants in the partnership are the Army Corps of Engineers, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Lake County Storm Water Management Commission. It is significant that another member is the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Students of the Des Plaines on both sides of the stateline already are looking at natural flood control methods such as wetlands and prairie restoration and development of a network of swamps instead of levee construction.

A new day is dawning for the Des Plaines River, white man's first "avenue" to Lake County. The future is exciting. The Des Plaines River Ecosystem Partnership is deserving of support from all sides.

Flag waving absent from graduation rites ome grandparent types (I seem to be hanging out more and more with them) were discussing the changing face of America. That's code talk for how the younger generation to-day differs from their own adolescent experience during World War Ii and the Korean Police Action.

The setting was a family gettogether to celebrate the high school graduation of Jenelle.

Her grandmother mentioned how Jenelle's ceremony at a far west suburban metro high school was devoid of any patriotic or religious references. No prayers, no National Anthem or Pledge of Allegiance. No evidence of an American flag in the gymnasium where the diplomas were handed out.

Must have looked like a "Third World Nation," cracked one grandfather.

Additional evidence of our ever changing society was provided by the family pastor, who admitted becoming a bit tongue-tied at a recent wedding ceremony when he noticed that one of the bride's maids had a heavy ring piercing her upper lip.

Later on during the wedding reception, the pastor told how wedding guests became aware that the same young woman had a very noticeable tattoo curling around her leg from a shoe top beyond the point where a fashionably short skirt ended. One of the guys asked a guy's question. "Was it a serpent, pastor?" Ever the diplomat, the clergyman replied. "It appeared to be more like a clinging vine, with leaves and that sort of thing."

Any impression that grandparents got that Jenelle and her classmates had detoured during their high school days to another planet was quickly dispelled by a table of teenage memorabilia her mother set up for the visitors. On display were sports awards, gag photos of friends, prom pictures and scrapbook loaded with things girls keep like newspaper clippings of the homecoming game, dried corsages, and pages and pages of snapshots.

In a nation where the highest court in the land has ruled that burning the American flag is an accepted form of protected speech, grownups shouldn't get uptight about the absence of patriotic fervor among our offspring. When you think about it, maybe we're the ones who have changed, not the kids.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Representatives not listening

I am distressed to see Richard Raftis being considered for appointment to the Zoning Board of Appeals. Raftis is pro-development, and was just voted out of office by the voters of this County. He may have lots of experience, but his experience and voting record go against the wishes of the voters.

Mr. Grever and the County Board members should pay more attention to what the residents of this County want. Development in Lake County must be more controlled and less dense than Raftis and his buddies have forced on us. Special interests and good old boy attitudes have split the Republican Party and may well destroy it. Pro-development officials must listen to the voters on this vital issue.

I urge the people of this county to stay alert to what is best for the county, and vote against those who aren't listening. Those members who would support Raftis aren't listening.

I am distressed to see Richard Voters being snubbed

It appears that some members of the Lake County Board think that we're a bunch of idiots.

One of the duties of the Lake County Board's Planning and Zoning Committee is to find and recommend qualified individuals to fill vacancies on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Currently, a vacancy does exist on the Zoning Board of Appeals, but despite their right to do so, the Planning and Zoning Committee has refused to recommend a candidate for the vacancy. With the exception of Larry Leafblad, the other committee members, under the watchful eye of Lake County Board Chairman Grever, have side-stepped the issue. This unwillingness to make a recommendation, sets the stage for Chairman Grever to appoint one of his "good old boy" buddies, Dick Raftis to the position. Yes, that's the same Dick Raftis we voted OFF the County Board by a huge 2 to 1 margin.

By not recommending other individuals to this position, certain committee members, which include Pam Newton, Carol Spielman, Angelo Kyle and Robert Buhai have essentially insured Raftis will be appointed to fill this vacancy.

The voters of Lake county sent a clear message regarding Mr. Raftis in the last County Board election. We did not want him on the Board then, and we do not want him holding a position on the Planning and Zoning vanston native John Schmidt seemingly knows the importance of cultivating votes in the collar counties. He made a visit to Lake County, Tuesday, even though he has yet to announce officially in the race for the state's top position.

Campaign trail starts in Lake County

"I think it is important for whoever is governor to understand the collar counties," Schmidt said.

He feels school funding reform should be a top priority for the state and does favor a personal income tax increase to fund education.

"If you just base it on additional revenue, there may come a time when you don't have that revenue in the budget." Schmidt said. "I believe a personal income tax increase with property tax relief is the answer."

Schmidt is a long-time acquaintance of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and is hoping to have his endorsement in the race.

He says he is a fiscal conservative who is moderate enough to appeal to the entire state. He also promises to be a friend to the business community.

It has been more than 20 years since Illinois last elected a Democratic governor.

He is expected to make it official in late July and says he won't be a stranger in Lake County during the campaign.

Glowing reviews

County Board members heaped praise on Antioch representative Judy Martini Tuesday for her legwork on the recently passed boating safety legislation.

Martini has worked diligently on behalf of passing the bills which bring additional safety measures to the boating industry.

The bills which passed were sponsored by State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and Representative Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa).

One neat article about fathers came from the heart and typewriter of the late Erma Bombeck, whose newspaper column was long a national treasure.

It was titled, "When God Made a Father." Here's a taste of it:

"When the good Lord was creating fathers, a female angel said, 'What kind of father is that? Large hands can't manage diaper pins, small buttons, rubber bands on ponytails, or remove splinters from baseball bats.'

"God smiled. 'I know, but they're large enough to hold everything a small boy empties from his pockets, yet small enough to cup a child's face in.'

"God was creating two quite large feet when the angel complained, 'Do you honestly think those large boats are going to dig out of bed early in the morning when the baby cries? Or walk through a birthday party without crushing at least three of the little guests?'

grams and policies for the Lake

I am particularly proud of what we, as a group, have accomplished over the last five years. When I was first appointed to the Board of Health in 1992, we were confronted with a number of problems at the Health Dept. There were growing financial difficulties which were not being addressed, complaints by the regulated industries of a perceived adversarial relationship with the Department, and complaints about staff relations within the Department. As I look back now, in 1997, I see a financially solid Department that is recognized as a model for its service and efficiency not only in the State of Illinois, but in the entire country; a Board which has not only worked by the regulated industries, but which now includes members from those same industries in order that we may continue our positive relationships; and leadership that fosters openness and communication, both within the Department, as well as with the many organizations and publics whom the Department serves. I feel very fortunate to have been through the problems brought to us

part of this new era in the Lake County Board of Health. It has been both exciting and rewarding to assist in building these new relationships and work toward providing Health Dept. services to all who need them. I shall miss my colleagues on the Board, and. most certainly I will miss the truly dedicated and capable staff with whom I have had the pleasure of interacting these past five years. I wish them continued success in their efforts to ensure the health of Lake County.

Board approves Raftis ZBA appointment despite outcry

Former County Board Member Richard Raftis received appointment to the Lake County Planning and Zoning Board of Appeals, Tuesday, despite public outcry which heated-up the board room.

He was approved for the volunteer post by a 13-7 vote. First-term County Board Member Sandy Cole (Dist. 11-Grayslake) had called County Board Chairman Bob Grever on the appointment in the May regular meeting. Grever delayed a vote on the matter until the June meeting because of the controversy but saw no reason not to appoint Raftis to the post.

"I have given this some thought and I believe Dick Raftis is qualified to serve on the board," Grever told the board. "I have talked with people who have served with Mr. Lucas and not received a favor comment."

Cole has suggested Grayslake resident Charles J. Lucas as an alternative candidate for the post. Lucas is a retired U.S. Army Colonel who has served on the Grayslake Zoning Board of Appeals and as a Grayslake trustee for 28-years. He has also served as a member of the Lake County Public Lucas was in the audience and defended his less than stellar attendance record at the regional plan commission in the past year due to death in the family.

"In all my years of public service you will find I have a better than average attendance record," Lucas said.

The board split in their vote with the so-termed pro-growth Republicans and Democrats supporting Raftis and the independent Republicans calling for an alternative candidate.

The only board member not to vote in typical fashion was Diana O'Kelly of Mundelein, who voted for Raftis.

"I believe he is qualified for the position," O'Kelly said. "I don't like the way this has been handled, I think it became a character assassination against Raftis and I didn't want to be a part of that."

Raftis, who served one-term on the county board and was the chairman of the planning, building and zoning committee, began work on the county's soon-to-be-unveiled unified development ordinance. Prior to serving on the county board, he served as a member of the ZBA.

Several members of the public spoke against Raftis' appointment reminding board members that he was defeated for election by a margin of 2 to 1, based on his pro-growth views.

Several county board members including Mary Beattie of Lake Forest said, "All politicians lose election, that does not mean they should be denied the opportunity to serve the public."by Rhonda Burke

Habitat volunteer meeting slated

Habitat, for Humanity Lake County will hold its monthly Volunteer Orientation meeting on Tuesday, June 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Habitat for Humanity office at 315 N. Utica in Waukegan. The meetings, which take place on the third Tuesday of each month (except December), provide an opportunity to learn about Habitat and its volunteer needs. The program will include a slideshow presentation.

Habitat has a special need for skilled construction workers willing to be leaders. Also greatly needed are office workers to volunteer a few hours a week to help staff the Habitat office. Other volunteer opportunities include general construction, staffing the building material resale program, picking up donated items, and more.

Groups, as well as individuals are welcome.

Habitat for Humanity Lake County is the local affiliate of Habitat for Humanity International, a non-profit, ecumenical Christian housing ministry which seeks to eliminate poverty housing and homelessness worldwide. Habitat is not a give-away program. Homes are sold to partner families at no profit with no interest mortgages. Each family is required to contribute 500 hours on the construction of their home or other Habitat needs. House payments are recycled to build more homes for struggling families in our community.

There is no obligation for attending the meeting. For more information call Habitat at 623-1020 weekdays.

CRUSADE: Efforts paying off with which the State Board of Education may enter into agreements for such purposes include police and firefighter departments, emergency medical services agencies and related such organizations such as the Save-A-Life Foundation and the American Red Cross.

The foundation's efforts has been the central focus of the Woodland Meadows mom since her daughter Christina Spizzirri died in a Park City auto accident on Labor Day, 1992.

Save A Life For Kids, developed by the Save A Life Foundation, is a one-hour life support, first aid training course that teaches children what to do in an emergency. This includes how to access EMS, scene safety, bleed control, rescue breathing, Heimlich Maneuver and opening an airway. The program, through its mascot Perry Medic, is offered for ages 4 to 12.

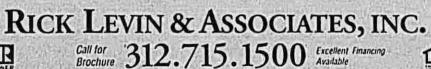

One Chicago school, Stone Scholastic Academy, has adopted the curriculum for its sixth graders with firemen volunteering their time to instruct.

That has caught the attention of Save-A-Life Foundation's supporters on a national basis, including David Hasselhoff, executive producer of the television show "Bay Watch."

"This life saving program will not only allow our youth to be emergency ready, but will help influence them to be caring and responsible adults. It is my hope that all Illinois schools will embrace your leadership and join in support of Save-A-Life Foundation's efforts. On "Baywatch," we portray the importance of prompt action by the first responder, bystander, and emergency medical providers. Several viewers of our show have saved real lives by applying the life supporting techniques we demonstrate, so my staff and I recognize the benefit of a proper first aid education. The alliance between fire-EMS department, the local school, and the SALF is an important step in furthering this education throughout our communities," Hassehloff wrote in correspondence to Save-A-Life Foundation.

12 ways to increase your job security

he only real security that a man can have in this world is a reserve of knowledge, experience and ability"— Henry Ford.

You need your job for the most part, you enjoy the work you do. However, you don't feel too secure in light of all the downsizing and rightsizing that's been going around lately.

So what can you do to increase your worth to your employer and maybe even position yourself for advancement? The following are proven principles for increasing your job security. Interestingly enough most of these strategies will also benefit you if you're self-employed.

The Dynamic Dozen

1. Apply yourself diligently. A valuable employee is one who knows how to work hard and work smart. And, most importantly is one who gives his or her best every day. The best way to keep your job, or get a promotion is to do what you

2. Take care of your customers. We all have customers. Some are internal customers. These are others in our organization who depend on us for work we do. Some are external. These are folks who depend on us for the products and services we provide. Everyone's job security ultimately rests on satisfying our customers.

3. Improve your communication skills. Folks who know how to listen carefully, speak fluently and write well have extra value to most companies. Join a Toastmasters Club, read good books on this topic or attend communicationbuilding seminars and workshops.

4. Think forward. Plan ahead, anticipate problems and solve them quickly. If you have to go to your boss with a problem, always suggest possible solutions.

5. Become a team player. The only place a "lone ranger" succeeds is in the movies. Substitute "we" for "I" in your business discussions. Work hard to cooperate rather than criticize. Find win-win solutions for internal conflicts.

6. Avoid making enemies. There's an adage that warns us to be careful who we step on as we climb the ladder of success. You never know who you'll meet on the way down.

7. Be positive and enthusiastic. Hall of Fame football coach Vince Lombardi said, "If you're not fired with enthusiasm you'll be fired with enthusiasm." Most managers prefer an employee with a good positive attitude and less skills over a highly-skilled person with an "I don't care" attitude.

8. Cross train. Build your skills by accepting every training opportunity. Broaden your value by being good in more than one area. When attending seminars, take good notes, listen carefully and be an active participant. Review your notes and materials every week until you've mastered the concepts.

9. Be a friend. Choose your friends carefully. Surround yourself with positive people whose ethics, integrity and company loyalty are above reproach. A good friend who has the respect of his or her superiors, can be a huge asset to your career. Please see JOB C/8 BUSINESS/REAL ESTATE

PICoffers youth summer programs

Summer for 343 students this year will focus on learning about different career opportunities and earning wages through programs offered by the Private Industry Council of Lake County (PIC). Ten proposals totaling $436,834 will be funded through the 1997 Summer Youth Employment and Training Program. Average cost per student is $1,274.

June 12, 1997

"These are tax dollars coming back to Lake County to directly benefit those students who need these programs, all of which are offered on a first-come, first serve basis, though participants must meet PIC qualifications," PIC Executive Director Christine Stevens said.

Each year, congress appropriates the funds, which go to the Dept. of Labor, then to the Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs, then to Lake County.

The county board approved the allocation of funds to PIC for these programs.

Lake County Board Vice Chairman Audrey Nixon, who also serves as the PIC liaison, said, "These are outstanding programs that benefit primarily 14 to 15 year old students throughout the community. Participants learn so many invaluable job skills. They also are able to earn money and prepare for their ca-

Board Member Angelo Kyle

agreed. He and PIC staff will be recruiting program participants at the YMCA, 724 S. Genesee St., Waukegan. Kyle said, "This is a good opportunity for the young people to develop some sense of responsibility by participating in summer youth programs, which give them something productive to do. We also are able to expose kids to career fields that are not considered typical."

One such example is the aviation industry. Students actually meet and work at the Waukegan Airport and learn how to chart a flight plan, taking many factors, such as wind conditions, into consideration. They also work behind a flight simulator, which lets them "land" at O'Hare or any other airport.

PIC's Stevens said, "All of the programs are designed to prevent learning loss, especially in math and reading, over the summer. The students spend one-half of a day in the classroom, and the other one-half working on job site.

The programs relate school work to the students' work." Programs start in June and end in August. The following is a breakdown:

 North Chicago Community School (Summer Academic Enrichment Program)-20 students will participate in handson, work based learning experience through classroom instruction, field trips and guest speakers. Students will be counseled on career interest and options, behavior and attitude.

· North Suburban Special Education District (Academic and Vocational enrichment)-47 students of the North Shore Academy, an alternative special education school, will focus on academic skills development and career exploration classes; community-based work experience/protected work site; a vocational apprenticeship; and individual vocational programming for severe to moderately developmentally delayed youth.

 Special Education District of Lake County/SEDOL-40 students will be taught positive work behavior, general social skills, social vocational skills, basic education and preemployment skills.

 Summer Training and Education Program (STEP)-140 students improve their reading and math skills, preventing learning loss over the summer, and increasing their knowledge of responsibility in terms of social and sexual behavior and providing students with pre-employment work and skill-building training.

 SER Jobs for Progress, Inc. (World of Work)-20-students are taught math/problem-solving classes, basic computer training and job readiness classes, and learn the connection between academics and having real career choices.

 Waukegan High School District 60 (Workplace Readiness Skills Training Program)-30 students increase their skills in communication, math and science. The program also helps develop individual responsibility, self-management and self-es-

Park City approves site for Columbia

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Park City will become a place of higher learning.

Columbia College and Marquardt Olds, Inc. have negotiated a lease agreement for a vacant building on the car dealer's property.

The college is currently holding classes at the second floor of the former Welton's County Market Build-Aldermen granted the special use permit following zoning board of appeals approval. The college will move into the site in October.

"The traffic will be less than if there was a car dealership at the building. We are really excited to have the college in town," Mayor Rob Allen said.

A 10-year lease for the 11,000 square foot building was finalized, according to Clarence Marquardt. He has been looking for a tenant for over a year.

"The vacant building created an impression the automobile business was poor. This will be a stimulus to us," he said.

"This allows us to continue to serve Lake County, which we have been doing since 1973. We will be able to have more computer labs, classroom space and offer more courses," Mike Randerson, director of extended studies at Columbia, Tuition is $115 a credit hour beginning with the August term. A series of eight-week classes are offered.

The college's Lake County history goes back to 1973 when it was at Fort Sheridan. It was moved to Glenview Naval Air Station in 1992, then the Gurnee storefront in 1994.

Allen said the college should be welcomed by Park City neighbors.

Gurnee village officials welcome a new automobile dealership. Saul Rosen will be moving Ford and Lincoln-Mercury operations to a site off Rte. 132. Gurnee is expecting a sales tax boom and has penciled in revenues in the 1997-98 budget. Hearings are planned for two other dealerships, both for used cars. Push for competitive electric rates

In the not too distant future, Illinois consumers may be able to purchase electricity the same way you purchase a loaf of bread -through competitive pricing.

"Electricity is one of the last commodities in which there is a monopoly. We are trying to move to a competitive market where you can by electricity and kilowat hours," Joe Wiegand said.

Wiegand is executive director of the Illinois Citizens for a Sound Economy, which bills itself "as the voice of consumers for free enterprise."

Under legislation up for consideration in the fall veto session of the state legislature, consumers and businesses would be able to choose their power source. The grid which produces electricity is ready for that now, Wiegand told Gurnee Rotary Club members.

People would contract with the supplier for amount and method of delivery. The potential savings, according to Michael T. Maloney and Robert E. McCormick of Clemson University, is 25 to 43 percent.

"The amount of electricity used is a reflection of the quality of life," Wiegand said.

The average residential user in Illinois uses 659 per kilowat hour according to 1994 figures. The Midwest average is 860 hours, 77 percent of the region. Yet, ICSE stated that Illinois costs are 111 percent higher than elsewhere in the Midwest.

One law presented in the last general assemby would have granted 30 percent in rate cuts over the next few years. But Wiegand's group objects to the "strandard cost provisions" which he says are a bailout for utilities.

"Any future rate savings would be washed out," Wiegand said.

He said the utilities have made progress in acceptance of the reform efforts. "In the beginning, it was 'just say no' now it is 'just say slow'," he said, adding better legislation may be crafted for the fall. There may also be future public hearings.

State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) agreed. "I was hoping we could get it done in the spring, but we will have improved legislation in the fall. ComEd has always been required to supply 80 percent of the market," Moore said.

Havlik: Offering lake frontage homes on Wooster Lake

United Homes,_a 51-year-old home-building company, has a heritage of developing high quality planned residential communities.

"United Homes recently unveiled preliminary plans for the launch of two new large, planned communities in 1997: Mirage in the Will County area, and Brooks Farm in the Lake County area," disclosed

Brooks Farm, is a proposed 560-home planned community in Ingleside. "Brooks Farm will offer lake, frontage on Wooster Lake, one of Illinois' deepest, spring-fed lakes," Havlik said.

"The community will feature retirement villas, townhomes, and single-family homes for 560 families on 240 acres of wooded, rolling Lake County countryside," he added.

Success bank participates in Access program

Success National Bank has announced that it will participate in Illinois' Ready Access Program, which enables disabled individuals to receive low interest loans to assist them in independent living. Success is one of the first banks in the area to participate in the program.

Late last year, State Treasurer Judy Baar
Topinka announced changes in the program that would allow individuals, in addition to businesses, to benefit from the program. "The Ready Access Program was originally developed for businesses to have access to capital for ADA improvements," Treasurer Topinka said.

"With many businesses now in compliance with that act, I felt that a more effective focus would be to revamp the program for the individual who requires assistive technology to maintain a more independent lifestyle."

In announcing participation in the program, Ann-Marie Hall-Sparks, vice president and CRA/Compliance Officer of Success National Bank, stated, "We are pleased to be able to participate in this meaningful program for the disabled. It once again reflects Success' commitment to individuals in the communities we serve."

The Treasurer's Office and Success National Bank will work together to assist individuals with disabilities providing capital to the borrower at a reduced rate of interest. The Treasurer's Office deposits state funds with Success National Bank which then makes low-interest loans to these individuals.

The funds earn interest and are fully protected against loss. Although the rates change daily, current Annual Percentage Rates (APR) on loans for Ready Access average around 6 percent.

The maximum amount of the loan is $25,000 for a term of up to three years. There is no minimum amount. On a $10,000 loan with an APR of 6.21 percent, the monthly payments would be $304.27 for three years. The APR reflects a $30 documentation fee.

The loans may be used for accessibility needs such as van lifts, entrance ramps, electric door openers, lower cabinets and counters and motorized scooters.

The loans may also be used for such assistive technology as augmentative communication devices, Braille printers, electronic magnifiers (CCTV), closed caption for television and adapted computers.

Perspective borrowers should contact the Success National Bank at any one of their seven locations.

Success National Bank is a full service community bank headquartered in Lincolnshire with other offices in Libertyville, Northbrook, Deerfield/Riverwoods, Lincolnwood and Lincoln Park.

A crew of eight dedicated employees plus a guest took to the streets as Waukegan Savings and Loan participated in the Lake County Div. of Transportation's "Adopt a Highway" program. Both sides of Delaney Road between Sunset and Yorkhouse are now just a little cleaner thanks to the group's efforts.

"The Adopt a Highway program provides a great opportunity for citizens to give something back to the community," noted Theodore (Ted) Stanulis, president of Waukegan Savings and Loan. "I'm very proud of the members of our staff who donated their own time to such a worthy cause."

Waukegan Savings and Loan was well represented in the effort. Joining Stanulis were Ruth Rodriguez and Barb Thomas from the bank's Savings Department, Controller Therese Hotze and her husband, Richard and tellers Donna Lancaster, Nicole Atkins, Emily Corsaw and Marisol Martinez.

"Working together really emphasizes what we can accomplish as a team," continued Stanulis. "Everyone who participated walked away knowing they made a positive contribution to the community. In fact, we've already had several more employees volunteer for our next cleanup in the fall."

Don't put all your golden eggs in one basket

You wouldn't think that a fellow who saves one quarter of his salary each year would need any financial advice. Think again. A recent story in USA Today reported on the investment strategy of a 44-year-old supervisor who works for a major corporation. This man plans to retire in 11 years. His current portfolio is worth about $367,000. He estimates he'll need $1 million to take early retirement at age 55.

While he may be more disciplined than most, his situation is not so different from that of many other wage earners. For example, he takes full advantage of his employer's 401(k) plan, contributing the maximum amount permitted. He puts an additional $2,000 a year into his individual retirement account (IRA). He has a portfolio of more than two dozen different stocks. That's smart planning by anyone's standards.

So what's the problem? Overconcentration, or, put more simply, too many eggs in one basket. The article reported that 86 percent of this investor's 401(k) portfolio ($230,800) and 54 percent of his total portfolio ($366,986) consist of his company's stock ($197,800). This means that if the company stock dropped 25 percent in a year, it would have to increase 33 percent the following year to make up for it.

It's not unusual for employees to put most, if not all, of their retirement investment in company stock. In this example, there was little choice. Salaried workers of this company are allowed to put up to 16 percent of their pay into the 401(k) plan. The company matches employee contributions only if they invest at least half the money in company stock. Workers who qualify for the match get 50 cents on the dollar paid in company shares. This is an excellent benefit, although it can lead to overconcentration.

Some companies allow their employees to sell company stock later and transfer the proceeds into other investment options within the plan. More companies are adopting 401(k) plans along with other retirement plans so that employees have a choice of investments. While this is a plus for the informed, others may find the choices confusing, opting instead to do too little or nothing at all. Other employees may choose money market funds because they typically are presented as the most conservative choice in the plan. Either way, the future retiree may be overconcentrated.

Retirement plans, which include 401(k)

plans and IRAs, must be as carefully balanced as any other investment.

It's to your benefit to participate in these plans with as many dollars as you can muster In most cases, contributions are made with before-tax dollars Add to that fact the taxsheltered benefit of a qualified retirement plan and possible employer contributions, and you have a golden goose. It's up to you, however, to produce the golden egg. This is accomplished only through careful study and prudent selection of investments. How To Survive The Job Search seem to stop amusing me. I would like to address some of the situations to you in my column this week, with hopes that perhaps something you hear will put you in tune... I'd like to address a call I personally documented with humor, where an advertisement had been placed in the newspaper for a Lake County Corporation seeking Data Entry and our corporate phone number. Now, the proper way of course to place a call to a company in search of this position, is to professionally present yourself over the phone which he did. I was thoroughly impressed with his upbeat high energy desire for data entry and his pride in his keystrokes. The conversation went well and after establishing the salary to be above what he quoted to be his "desirable salary" further stating how this sounds life it is right up his alley, I set up an appointment with this individual for an interview. While in the midst of giving directions he stopped dead in his tracks and asked if he was calling an employment agency, the character became trate and stared mouthing off some irritating speech about it being wrong to deceive people by not putting our company name in the paper so we can identify ourselves. I of course allowed this person to continue to embarrass himself and asked him if he was finished. He calmed down long enough to allow me to ask him 2 questions. The first was, "tell me, is your difficult attitude, due to the fact that you have not been able to find a job?"

to the dozens of calls I have received in the past 2 weeks from students home for summer break. In as much as that we employ several dozens of students over the summer break, attitudes never seem to stop amusing me. I would like to address some of the situattitude, due to the fact that you have not been able to find a job?"
He said, "Possibly!"... I then responded with another question to him, and this being, "Are you looking for the position that we just discussed, and you seemed enthralled with?" Again, he responded with yes, but I don't need to use an employment agency to get one!" I then started laughing outloud as he expressed his disgust and asked me if I found his answer to that funny,. "Of course I do", I said to him, "the position that you are applying for, is right here in our corporation!" As the phone became silent, I believe that he real-

I would also like to address the college applicant who treated me to a sparkling interview, that led to her being employed all summer at an hourly salary she only dreamed of during breaks... Turning to what some may refer to as a "Jekyll and Hyde" persona in her second week of employment because she had not received her first payroll check. You may want to seriously consider not showing that icky side of you to any employer that allows you to place the blame on everyone but yourself. Once you were informed that the United States Postal service was holding your mail in an area labeled "ANK", (or "address not known") due to the fact that your name appears no where on or in your mailbox. Your response to that was, "Well, how was I supposed to know that I need to have my name in my mail box?...I just moved here."... It was by then, too late to take back any of the attitude. ...Truth is...I think you really believe that someone dealt you a bad hand (so to speak) and that it's someone else's fault for not telling you about mailboxes...Perhaps there's a course you can pick up next semester in college. a course you can pick up next semester in college.

Or perhaps, you may want to refresh your mind on the A,B,C's of employment and how to keep it!
